There's a new celebrity couple to focus on! What are some ways to keep your relationship under wraps until you're ready to go public?

Cupid's Advice:

Keeping your new relationship secret isn't a bad thing. It gives you and your new partner privacy. And if things don't work out, you won't have to go into a big long explanation on what happened to family and friends. Cupid has some advice on ways to keep your new relationship a secret:

1. Limit social media posts: It's okay to take pictures together when you first start dating after you get serious. It's okay to enjoy dating for a while before you make the big announcement that you're in a new relationship. Save a few fun photos of yourself together and then post them online when you're ready to go public!

2. Make time for friends: Be sure to make time to spend with your friends even though spending all of your time with your partner might be tempting. It's easy to neglect other relationships when you begin a new one, so be sure to make regular dinner dates or girls nights if you want to avoid suspicion about a new relationship until you're ready to let them know.

Celebrity Break-Up: Demi Lovato Splits from Fashion Designer Henri Levy

By Mara Miller

In the latest celebrity break-up news, Demi Lovato has called it quits with fashion designer Henri Levy, according to UsMagazine.com. Both sober, the two met years ago in rehab and became friends. They sparked news of their celebrity relationship after they were spotted in early November 2018 enjoying a dinner date at Matsuhisa restaurant in Beverly Hills. Neither has commented on their split.

This celebrity break-up comes after only four months of dating. What are some ways to know your relationship has long-term potential?

Cupid's Advice:

All new relationships have a honeymoon stage. Whether you decide to stick with your partner after a rough time or not is the true test of a relationship. Cupid has some advice on how to know when a relationship has long-term potential:

1. You feel like yourself with them: You're okay with letting them see you limp in the morning because you tripped while walking the dog. You don't care if your partner sees you with bed-head. You let them see you worrying because your paycheck wasn't as large as you thought it would be. While all of these may be examples, it's important to be yourself around your partner. If you have to fake who you are to impress the person you're with to avoid judgment, then the relationship will not last.

2. You know what your partner needs: They know how you like your coffee, and they can tell when you're about to have an emotional breakdown days before it happens. When your partner instinctively knows what you need, then they just may be the one you're meant to live your life with – and it's not just from their side. When you know that your partner needs something without them saying anything, then it means that you have reached the point where you're both in a solid partnership.

3. You're physically intimate: A relationship with long-term potential isn't about the sex. You can both be virgins up until marriage if that is something you both value before making a life-long commitment. Holding hands, innocent kisses, and hugs are a sign that you are both comfortable. And if you aren't waiting until marriage, the time between the sheets will help build a stronger connection as long as you both understand that it's a way for you both to show how much you love each other.

and her husband, John Legend, have been together for twelve years and married for five. They have two children, Luna and Miles. Teigan questioned modern dating on Twitter on Sunday, saying, “I haven’t dated for a long, long time but are guys really pulling the ‘let’s be exclusive’ thing six months into dating like what, I have been exclusive what the f–k have you been”. Chrissy is right—modern dating can be a mess.

Chrissy Teigen’s questions about modern celebrity dating are way too relatable. What are some old-school tips we should adopt in today’s dating game?

Cupid’s Advice:

Though online dating platforms are the newest way to meet someone, old-fashioned dating still has its merits. Here are a few old-school tips:

1. Get off the phone: We carry mini-computers around with us, allowing constant access to the outside world. Old-fashioned dating meant actually spending time with your date to try to get to know them and giving your date time to get to know you if you’re genuinely interested in a relationship. Try leaving the phone in your purse or back pocket on vibrate to give your date your sole attention.

2. Take Things Slower: While waiting for marriage to be intimate might seem too old fashioned, taking things slow while you’re dating has its benefits. Keep in mind that there is nothing wrong with jumping into bed together on the first date, but if you're serious about the person you want to date, waiting and taking things a tad slower will allow both of you to decide if pursuing the relationship is plausible or a total disaster.

3. Find someone you can dance with: While this might seem like something your grandmother would say, couples who can dance and have fun together are more likely to have a successful relationship. 1. Review your expenses, and then decide how you'll break things up: Are you going to split the bills even, or share them? Consider if you're ready to share the cost for food and gas, and if you're renting and the utilities aren't included, the water and the electric. This can be easily done by creating a budget for your potential new household.

Cupid's Advice:

It's not easy breaking up, but is it that easy to get back together with an ex? Cupid has some tips on what to consider before getting back together with an ex:

1. The break-up: Ask yourself, did the break-up end badly? Why did you break up? Can what was broken be fixed? Were you a better person while with this person, or worse? You must reevaluate your old relationship, and really give some thought to everything you have been through – the good, the bad and the ugly.

2. Figure out why you want to get back together: Are you lonely? Do you miss them specifically, or just having a partner in general? Really consider why you want to get back together with this person. The fact is, this isn't a new relationship and there's no guarantee that old fights and problems won't arise.
