Cupid's Advice:

After dating your partner for a while, you start to hear those wedding bells. How do you know when you are ready for the big "I do?" Cupid has some advice:

1. Communication: Communication is very important. However, Cupid isn't referring to the selective hearing we all fall victim to. Good communication is one of the biggest foundations of a relationship. Expressing yourself and having healthy conversations or arguments is important. Like the relationship as a whole, communication is a two-way street, and if you feel like your communication is one way, then work on it. Better to work out the kinks now than later.

2. Happiness: If you aren't happy, don't get married. Too many times you see people getting married for every reason under the sun except for truly being happy together. Why spend the rest of your life unhappy? Marry someone who continuously makes you laugh and smile, someone whose company you enjoy; whether you are hiding out at home with junk food and Netflix or having a little too much fun at Dave & Busters. Your happiness, as well as your partner's, matters.

This new celebrity couple isn't in hiding anymore! What are some ways to keep your new relationship from hurting your recent ex?

Cupid's Advice:

Moving on isn't always easy, and while it can be a sensitive time, it still has to be done. Cupid has some ways to keep your new relationship from hurting your recent ex:

1. Respect: Respect is the most important part of this whole situation. You and your ex called it quits, and it's important to respect the fact that it takes time to move forward. Not only should you respect this, but your new partner should as well. Parading your new partner around can be hurtful and can cause unwanted drama. Your new love interest may be inclined to stir the pot; don't let them. Make sure everyone respects each other and things go smoothly. Who wants the drama anyway?

2. Distance: Distance can actually very much help the situation. We're not saying that you and your new flame cannot enjoy going out, but maybe for a while avoid going to places that you and your ex used to frequent. Keeping your new relationship separated from the old is one of the best things you can do. Keeping a respectful distance helps to build a healthy relationship for all parties involved.

3. Time: Time is an important part of the healing process as well. To “soften the blow,” allow your ex to have some time to heal. With some time, your ex should be better about the situation, and you and your new partner will be able to thrive with no drama. They say time heal all wounds, so, in this case, give your ex time to adjust to the fact that you are moving on. Just think about if the shoe were on the other foot.

There are many things that are signs showing that someone will treat you right. Sweetin was right on the money with all she said on V-Day via Instagram. Here are three signs to be optimistic about:

He even joked about it on Instagram when he posted a photo of the couple smooching Sunday. "This Sunday's outcome is a lot better than last Sunday's! #losingstreakstopsatone," he captioned. Adorbs!

This celebrity couple isn't letting the Super Bowl loss affect their relationship. What are some ways to keep negative life events from putting a damper on your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

It happens. When we are involved in negative circumstances, we tend to misplace our emotions and take out our frustrations on our significant other at times, which isn't okay. Cupid has some advice on how to get around it:

1. Remember what you're mad at: Breathe and think. It's easier said than done, but it works. When we become angry, we can lose sight of what or who we're really mad at, which can lead us to take it all out on those closest to us, like your lover. When surrounded by negativity, clear your head by taking about 10 deep breaths – in and out. Then remember that you're not mad at your partner, and that they deserve your fairness and respect.

2. Do something with your significant other: It will help take the edge off. When you create a happy place with them, then outside negativity should not be able to reach you there. Also, building positive memories is always a good thing! Be sure to remain mindful of the energy you give out in your happy place because if you're being negative, then what's the point?

3. Blow off steam: Chill with your friends. Sometimes when surrounded by the bad, we need to kick back and have some time with our friends. We sometimes also need space from our partners, so this works for both. Don't let bad energy or vibes bring you down, go and have a good time!

2. Don’t show frustration: Do not allow others to see how much the rumors are affecting you because it can lead to the rumors escalating. Many times people make up rumors out of jealousy, Doing these things with a clear mentality is important because the situation can easily get out of hand when neither party is thinking straight.

This recently divorced celebrity says it's complicated and not a priority.

This celebrity news shows us celebs aren't immune to having to adjust. What are some ways to know you're ready to get back into the dating scene when you have kids?

Cupid's Advice:

Balance is key when you're a single parent. You have to make sure you balance the demands of your career with the demands of your family. Maintaining a house, both the operations and finances, alone can be a challenge. Somewhere in there, of course, you need to be able to take care of yourself. Here's Cupid's dating advice to help you get ready for dating again:

1. Balance career: If you were the main bread-winner, maintaining the house and investing in your family was on the back burner because you had someone else helping you. When suddenly your support is gone, having the mental and physical energy to still invest in your career in addition to your new responsibilities can be daunting. Make sure your career is in a place where you can take some focus away and instead invest in yourself and a relationship.

2. Are your kids ready: With a large brood of kids like Brad Pitt, getting back into dating can be a lot harder. Each age range of childhood processes divorce differently, so each child will vary on their resistance to a parent returning to dating. As a parent, be ready for that resistance, but make sure you're caring for your children, too.

3. Length of relationship: Depending on the length of your marriage, you may need more time to cope post-divorce. Shared affairs, such as mortgages and finances, can be hard to unravel and separate. Aside from that, the emotional aspect of becoming suddenly single can be a shock. As fun as dating can be again, if you're looking for something more serious, consider giving yourself the adequate amount of time to heal and the appropriate length of courting before claiming a relationship is serious.

Cupid's Advice:

Once trust is lost, it's hard to get it back. But it's possible. Cupid has some love advice:

1. It takes two of you to rebuild trust: Both the person who is forgiving the other and the one that is working to mend the trust they broke have to work on it. You both have to meet each other half way to rebuild what was lost. And remember, Rome was not built in a day.

2. Be honest with one another from here on out: Honesty is always key to making a relationship work. A way of proving yourself to one another is to not lie. If one partner or both partners continue to lie to one another, it will not work, and the path to rebuilding the trust will get much more difficult. Be truthful and be open. Communication is key.

3. Can you forgive? Can you prove yourself?: Lots of thinking and evaluating needs to happen! Before trying to rebuild the trust in a relationship, you both need to ask yourselves something: Can I forgive him or her? Can I prove my loyalty again after violating his/her trust? If the answers to these questions are yes, then let the mending begin. If not, it's time to let go.

Celebrity News: Matt Lauer Fired from NBC News for 'Inappropriate Sexual Behavior'

By Rachel Sparks

The latest celebrity news is another sex scandal, and it breaks our hearts. After Harvey Weinstein, Hollywood has been under scrutiny for its sexual misconduct. Matt Lauer of NBC was fired overnight Wednesday, November 29 for “inappropriate sexual behavior.” UsMagazine.com reported the many celebrities who reacted to this news. Andy Cohen reacted to President Donald Trump’s tweets, calling him a hypocrite. Both Rose McGowan and Kathy Griffin, who spoke out against Weinstein, stated they had been keeping an eye on Lauer.

This celebrity news seems to be more of the same lately, unfortunately. What are some ways to get up the courage to speak out when you feel sexually harassed or have been assaulted?

Cupid's Advice:

Speaking out when you feel victimized is terrifying, but being stuck in a situation you feel like you can't get out of is worse. Finding the courage to speak up and protect yourself will feel near impossible. Cupid has relationship advice to help a friend, or yourself, make it through this situation:

1. Indirect confrontation: A lot of times you want to take action, but you're terrified of the repercussions of a direct confrontation. Oftentimes a direct approach isn't the best answer. If you don't feel like you have support, fighting a situation alone could backfire. Instead, if you're being sexually harassed, find a way to distract from the sexual intentions. Spill a drink, take a phone call, fake an emergency. Find a way to get out of the situation and divert attention.

In the latest celebrity news, Selena's family is taking a while to come around to her rekindled romance with Justin Bieber. What are some ways to foster a positive relationship between your partner and your family?

Cupid's Advice:

It can be troubling when your family doesn't approve of your partner. Check out Cupid's advice on how to deal with these tough situations:

- 1. Start small: If your family is hesitant to accept your partner, it's probably a good idea to start small. Having them come home for the holidays is traditionally a big deal, and it can get super awkward. Instead, try gradually making your partner a part of your family's life. Some people just take longer to warm up to than others, so it doesn't mean all hope is lost!

2. Don't force it: No matter how hard you try, you can't force people to get along. In fact, forcing a positive relationship upon people often works in reverse. If the relationship between your partner and your family is not what you hoped it'd be, give it some time and don't meddle! Things will pan out, in due time.

Celebrity Break-Up: 'Vanderpump Rules' Star Sheana Marie & Robert Valletta 'Kind of Broke Up'

While this celebrity relationship is in a tricky spot, they continue to have hopes of working things out and are still planning a future together.

There may have been a celebrity break-up in Hollywood, but we're not quite sure. What are some reasons to avoid being wishy washy about your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Not knowing what you want or where you want to be in your relationship can cause a lot of issues within yourself and your relationship. Here are a few more reasons to avoid being wishy washy in your relationship:

1. It can be confusing: If you are on the fence about your relationship, your partner could easily get confused. If there are at a certain level in the relationship that you're not at yet, they may not understand what is going on. They may begin to wonder if you are as committed as they are or if you really want to be with them. It is best to make up your mind about them and communicate it clearly.

2. Feelings are at risk: If your partner feels that you both are on the same page when it comes to your romance but you are really several steps behind them, their entire world will apart when they figure it out. When you are wishy washy about your relationship, you are easily leading on your partner unless you make it clear that you are unsure. This way, they will not be blind sided by your feelings and they can adjust their expectations in the relationship.

3. You might settle: Sometimes, when we are unsure about something, we settle with what we have instead of making a hard choice. If this happens in a relationship, you will regret always. Instead of being comfortable with your indifference, make the decision. If you think that this relationship is the one you want, go for it. If you can't see yourself with your partner in the future, end it now.

3. Get out there: Once you are starting to feel yourself again and have come to terms with the fact that it is over, get out there!
