In celebrity break-up news, split proceedings are still ongoing with

Kelly Clarkson and her soon-to-be ex husband Brandon Blackstock. What are some ways to keep the divorce process from affecting your kids?

Cupid's Advice:

Going through the divorce process can be extremely stressful, and it can be even more difficult to navigate for the kids involved. If you're looking for some ways to keep the divorce process from affecting your kids, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Keep the legal talk to a minimum: When you're going through the legal process of a divorce, try not to let your kids hear too much about this. You will have to be honest about new living situations and rules, but they don't need to know all the details of the custody battle and legal ramifications. This will only add to their stress and sadness.

2. Stick to their routines: Another important factor in keeping your kids from being affected by the divorce process is to minimize disruptions to their routines as much as possible. You don't want them to feel like too much has changed, so try to maintain a sense of stability for them. This will keep them from feeling like their whole life has been uprooted because of the divorce.

3. Don't talk negatively about your ex: Even though it may be tempting, talking negatively about your ex in front of your children may only confuse them. You don't want your relationship issues with your ex to carry into their own relationship. Your children still deserve a good relationship with both of their parents, so try to refrain from blaming or bad mouthing your ex in front of them.

Cupid's Advice:

Break-ups are never easy, no matter how long you and your partner have been together. However, spending years, or even decades, with another person can make the process of breaking up even more challenging. If you are looking for signs that your long-term relationship has run its course, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Holding on to happier times: Creating memories together can be one of the best parts of a relationship, but it can also cause people to remain in relationships that are reaching their end. Breaking-up doesn't mean you have to forget all the great times in your relationship, it opens you up to new experiences.

2. You've grown in different directions: People are constantly growing and changing over the years. While this is no one's fault, staying together despite your different paths in life may continue to cause conflicts that you're already facing.

3. Loss of feelings: No one wants to be told that their partner has lost feelings for them. Likewise, many people might not want to admit they've lost feelings for their partner. Ending a relationship, especially a marriage can be a tough decision to make. It's difficult to know if you should keep trying to work on it, or if it is time to call it quits. If you're having trouble in a relationship and need some signs that your relationship is unfixable, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You don't trust each other anymore: One of the most difficult issues to resolve in a relationship is a lack of trust. Although trust and loyalty can be regained sometimes, once they are lost over and over again, it becomes even more difficult to replace. If you and your partner have tried regaining trust, and it is just not working, it may be a sign of irreversible damage.

2. You make each other unhappy more than you make each other happy: Another tell-tale sign of an unfixable relationship is unhappiness. If you and your partner usually make each other unhappy or upset more often than you make each other happy, this may be a sign that the good parts of the relationship are long gone. Although you can try things to fix this problem, if negative feelings and unhappiness are persistent in your relationship, it may be difficult to change that.

Cupid's Advice:

It can be hard to determine when a relationship has officially run its course, and even harder to let go when you two share a long past or children. If you are looking for ways to determine if your relationship is truly over, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. You're not yourself: It can be difficult to determine just how much a failing relationship is affecting your life. If you find yourself getting tired or irritated in situations that have nothing to do with your current relationship, the emotions can still be coming from this source of stress. Take a moment to assess your current state of mind and see if relationship drama is carrying into other areas of your life.

2. You've split many times before: Sometimes you truly need to break-up with someone to understand just how much they mean to you. However, if you have split multiple times with your current partner, or have started taking breaks more frequently, it may be a sign that your relationship is coming to an end.

3. You've spoken with professionals: Many people turn to relationship counselors when they are experiencing trouble with their partner to find new ways to problem-solve. Relationship counselors will also sometimes recommend splitting from your partner if they feel your relationship is irreparable.

Not only are you facing the end of a relationship, but you are also forced to confront other hardships in your life. If you are looking for ways to stay supported during a dramatic divorce, Cupid has some advice for you.

1. Family and friends: The first people you can find support in amid a dramatic divorce are those closest to you. Friends and family can be the perfect outlets to allow you to express your feelings and escape any drama caused by your divorce. You may also have someone in your circle that has gone through a similar experience and can offer some insight of their own.

Cupid's Advice:

Watching someone we care about go through an emotional break-up can be almost as painful as going through a break-up ourselves. If you are looking for ways to support a friend or family member through a rough split, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Listen to them: The best way to show your support for someone in any situation, especially someone going through a rough split, is to simply listen to them. While it is great to offer advice and insight into similar situations you have been through, it is also important to make sure you are simply listening as the other person expresses their feelings. The last thing you want is for someone to falsely think you are trying to make the situation about yourself.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Up: Kelly Clarkson Says Life Has Been a 'Dumpster' Amid Divorce from Brandon Blackstock

2. Spend time together: One of the most difficult things that follows a break-up is filling the time that you used to spend with your significant other. If you know someone who is going through a painful break-up, a great way to support them is to offer them your time. Make plans to go out to lunch or watch a movie and allow them to escape from thinking about their break-up for a few hours.

3. Reserve your opinions: Right after a break-up, many people turn to talking poorly about their new ex as a way of processing what they are going through. While you may have opinions about this person's ex or their relationship in general, it is better to reserve these opinions in the beginning. Whether you have been waiting for the couple to break-up or shocked that their relationship didn't work, waiting until all emotions have subsided to express your opinions can prevent any confusion or ill feelings between you and the person you are supporting.

Cupid’s Advice:

When we truly love someone, we often find it difficult to determine when a relationship is officially over. Despite the fact that staying together may now be causing one or both of you discomfort, it can be challenging to let go. If you are looking for signs that it is time to end your relationship for good, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Nonstop disagreement: It is obvious that a relationship isn’t working when both people involved are fighting constantly. However, even nonstop small disagreements, such as never agreeing where to eat or what day to hangout, can be unhealthy in a relationship. While these mild disagreements may not be enough to warrant a break-up initially, they can lead to underlying tension or lack of communication if they are present in every conversation.

2. Lack of Excitement: If agreeing to an activity with your partner causes you to feel stressed rather than excited, it might be a sign that the relationship has reached its limit. It should never feel like an obligation to be around the person you love. If you find yourself dreading the idea of

One of the unfortunate added side effects that often follows a break-up is drama. Despite all the efforts we may make, it is normal to be faced with rumors or awkward questions once a relationship ends. If you are looking for ways to keep the drama at bay during a split, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Keep it neutral: Negative words seem to travel the quickest during the time of a break-up, and are likely to make their way back to your ex partner if you share mutual friends. While it is necessary to process your break-up with others, avoiding an excessive amount of negativity around the situation can help alleviate some of the drama. Try to keep statements as neutral as possible when speaking with your mutual friends to avoid anything accidentally being taken out of context.

2. Focus on yourself: Drama is often started when we are focusing on another person. If you refuse to give this budding drama the time of day by prioritizing yourself, then it will not be able to grow!

1. Be professional: Emotions run high during the process of breaking up, and may cause some people to act out of character. Agreeing on dates for your ex to collect their belongings or return keys if you were living together is a good way to keep the break up harmonious.

The end of a relationship is always hard. You need time to grieve no matter how it ended. It’s also important not to let the grief be the only thing you feel. If you’re having a hard time feeling positive after your breakup, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Reconnect with friends: It’s easy to distance yourself from your friends during your relationship, but it’s important to spend time with them after a breakup. Your close friends are there for you and this is when you need them most. If they’re long-distance friends, schedule times to call them!

1. They're no longer your go-to: You just got amazing news, but your partner isn't the first to know. You want to go to a concert, but you don't think to bring them as your plus one. According to UsMagazine.com, Henriquez captioned her tweet, "Exes are exes for a reason." These celebrity exes have broken up before in the form of a very public celebrity divorce celebrity divorce in 2014, but recently they have been trying to reconcile their relationship. Due to the recent cheating scandal, however, Henriquez decided to take it to Twitter, ending her tweet saying, "I deserve better than this, Our son deserves better than this."

In celebrity break-up news, Josh Lucas' ex-wife is airing her grievances publicly. What are some things to consider before going public with relationship disagreements?

Cupid's Advice:

Having a disagreement with your partner can really be difficult, and sometimes you can be airing your dirty laundry without realizing it just because you need to vent. If you tend to go public with your relationship disagreements before considering all of the consequences, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Think of the kids: Relationship disputes can be a really delicate situation, but when there are kids involved, it only makes it more complicated. You don't want your kids to be involved in adult conflict, and when you go public with your relationship drama, it can easily be overheard by your children. So, before you publicize your relationship disagreement, think about your kids. Put them first.

2. What will your family and friends think?: When you tell your family and friends about your relationship feud, it can really paint a negative picture of your partner in their heads. If you decide to work out your differences and forgive your partner, your family and friends might not forgive them so easily, which will make gatherings really awkward. Your complaints can be taken to heart by your family and friends, making your partner seeming like a terrible person.

3. You'll receive everyone's two cents: Having everyone know that you and your partner are having relationship issues can result in everyone giving their unwanted opinions. Hearing their thoughts about your relationship can stress you out. Sometimes unwanted opinions can lead to blowing smaller issues out of proportion, which only results in more conflict. When you deal with your relationship issues internally, you'll focus on your opinion alone, and that's ultimately the only one that matters.

Celebrity Break-Up: Kenya Moore's Husband Marc Daly Reportedly Had Multiple Affairs Before Split

By Ahjané

Forbes

In celebrity news, former Real Housewives of Atlanta star, Kenya Moore, is filing for a celebrity divorce from her husband Marc Daly. The celebrity couple has been married since June 2017 and share their 11-month old daughter, Brooklyn. According to sources from UsMagazine.com, the divorce filing comes after an alleged extramarital affair involving Moore's husband. Daly reportedly got very upset when discussing a possible prenup, saying, "You can take everything, I'll build it again!" Moore has requested her privacy at this time, while her soon-to-be celebrity ex husband has not commented.

In celebrity break-up news, Kenya Moore's estranged husband may have cheated on her with multiple people. What do you do if you find out your partner is cheating?

Cupid's Advice:

It's a hard pill to swallow when you find out that your partner has been having an affair with another person. It's even harder to accept the fact that you have been "replaced". Being upset is a normal emotion to feel at a time like this. However, how do you deal with this realistically? Cupid has some advice on how to deal with your lover's cheating ways:

1. Talk about it: Now, this is easier said than done. If you haven't given your partner a chance to explain him or herself, then you won't really know what's happening. Nobody likes hearing the potential unfaithful person's perspective, but it's important to talk to your partner before you take any further action. It is also important to point out any noticed changes in your love life. Tell your partner that you've notice the change in behavior. This will let them know that you are still paying close attention to them.

2. Go to therapy sessions: If a conversation is not obtainable, please seek professional help. Tell the therapist what's happening and how you feel about this. Your partner should also be willing to attend sessions to take steps to repair your relationship, if that's something you're willing to do. Try to let them tell their side of the story without interrupting. This will be the only way to get them to open up. Also, try to talk about how things were prior to the infidelity. This will help target a sequence of events and a timeline.

3. Don't rush a decision: If you have children, this may affect them as well. Consider them as well when you're deciding how to move forward with your partner. Don't make any hasty decisions. As much as you may want to leave, take some time to think. Your partner's actions may not be justifiable, but choosing a plan of action in the heat of the moment is not a good move. Distance yourself and talk about the important things that involve your children or your household. If there's no repairable solution to fix your relationship, and they are living a separate life, take steps to tell your children what's going on and start filing for a divorce.
