

Celebrity Interview: Sophia Bush, The Activism Behind the Acting

By Hope Ankney

Sophia Bush is an American actress, director, and producer, but she's most well-known for starring as Brooke Davis in the hit CW drama series One Tree Hill.

Although she has been a part of the entertainment industry for years and has been featured in many TV series and films, she has an undying passion for activism. Working to use her platform to raise awareness for certain causes, she has been part of many campaigns and groups like *F*ck Cancer*, Run for the Gulf, Humans Rights, and Do Something. Recently, she has been very vocal about women's rights and the feminist movement, joining organizations and using her credibility to make a stand against misogyny.

In our exclusive celebrity interview, we chat with the inspiring actress about her newest project with Always to #EndPeriodPoverty, her efforts to support the Times Up movement, her newest film, Hard Luck Love Song, and what she loves about her podcast Work in Progress!

In our celebrity interview with Sophia Bush, she talks about making the leap from the big screen to the activist scene.

1. Can you tell us about your latest campaign with Always?

I'm so proud to be working with Always on this important mission to help #EndPeriodPoverty. Last year, we were able to donate 20 million period products in the U.S. This year we're donating millions of additional products via Always' longstanding partner, Feeding America, and local Period Heroes who are already working to #EndPeriodPoverty for school-aged students in their communities! We are asking everyone to join us. Talking about the issue in your circles and on your social channels – tagging @always_brand using #EndPeriodPoverty – will help raise awareness and inspire action! If you want to do, even more, you can purchase period protection products and support local Period Heroes in your community by donating them to your local school or shelter. Any donation could go a long way in making a difference for someone in need. Visit <https://always.com/en-us/about-us/end-period-poverty> to learn more about how you can get involved.

2. What made you want to join the campaign?

I was honestly shocked and disheartened when going over the data that shows that nearly 1 in 5 girls in the U.S. have either missed school entirely or left school early because they lacked access to basic period products. Here in the Los Angeles area alone, 88,000 students have missed school because of period poverty. That's why I'm honored to team up with Always to help raise awareness of this issue and make a difference. We cannot begin to tackle an issue if no one knows about it, so breaking the taboo and having the conversation is an important first step!

3. Another campaign you have been a part of and helped found is the Times' Up movement. How has this movement affected your life? Your dating life?

Well, I find it sad that there's some sort of fear that women speaking up for themselves – and their friends and coworkers – would somehow shrink their dating options. Or, that it's part of the consideration in the conversation around equity and eradicating sexual harassment in the workplace. I want to be clear- pursuing someone romantically and harassing someone in the workplace do not, ever, overlap or intersect. Nor should they. My understanding of that reality hasn't made men run away from me. And if it did, trust me they wouldn't be the right men for me or for any of us. Times' Up has been a long time coming. As has the general conversation about treatment in the workplace. Women deserve to go to work and just do their jobs, the way men get to. The considerations and practices women have had to think about, just to avoid mistreatment while working, are an unfair amount of emotional labor, period. I'm glad we are in an era where we are talking about these things. I'll be even more glad when we see substantive, structural change taking place across industries. The conversation is certainly the first step, the awareness aspect is integral, but we need to see action taken as well. In my own life, I feel much safer and freer to be creative on sets where respect for everyone present has been clearly expressed. Where performers and crew alike are assured that they are supported. It matters.

4. Time's Up was founded by a number of other talented women. What are some lessons/ advice you have learned from the women you have campaigned with?

There are strength and safety in numbers, that's for sure. Whether it's the famous faces who have been able to garner global attention for the cause, those who champion behind the scenes, brilliant legal minds running the defense arm of the organization, I am in awe of how a committed group of women who are relentless in their pursuit of justice can effect change.

5. Along with being an activist, you are an actress who has starred in many popular shows/films. How do you use your platform as an actress to advocate for issues in the world or issues you are advocating?

My platform is the blessing of my career. I get to use it as a great big highlighter, a megaphone if you will, to draw attention to causes that need support. While I don't expect everyone to feel the way I do, I couldn't imagine having the ability to talk to millions of people every day and not pay that forward for great causes! I also happen to be a giant research nerd, so it excites me to do deep-dives on important subjects, from politics to philanthropy, and be able to share findings with my audience at large. It's the perfect marriage of the personal and professional, for me.

My acting career is something I love very much. I'm grateful that my professional work is something I deeply enjoy. My activism, advocacy, political work, and volunteering are what truly fuel me as an individual, on a personal level. That's where I can truly serve. It has been a privilege to be able to use my platform and my social channels to share my dedication to causes that I'm passionate about. I'm grateful every day for the incredible community we've been able to build together, filled with people who continue to support these important causes along with me.

6. You have an upcoming film, Hard Luck Love Song. Is there anything you can tell us about it?

It's such a beautiful, tragic, messy love story. I was so struck by the cast of characters in this movie, each trying to do their best in their complicated circumstances. Working with Michael Dorman was a dream. He's a fantastic friend and collaborator!

7. Will you have any love interests in this movie?

Michael and I play used-to-be sweethearts who can't quite let each other go. It's a relationship that once held a lot of love, but also a lot of pain, and over the course of the film, our characters will have to see if they can start over.

8. How do you prepare for a love interest in a new movie?

I don't prepare for the love interest part so much as I prepare my own character and her experiences that have led her to the place where the audience meets her, the first time she appears on the screen.

9. Is there anything you are excited to work on next?

I've been loving working on my new podcast, Work In Progress! It's been so fulfilling and fun. I get to have these deep, funny, curious conversations with unbelievable people. The other day someone called it the "'Fleabag' of podcasts," and considering "Fleabag" is one of my favorite shows of all time, I just about fainted. That kind of raw honesty is exactly what I'm looking to cultivate, and I'm so thrilled that our listeners feel it. Plus, getting to interview everyone from Gloria Steinem to Whitney Cummings has been such a joy!

What can't Sophia Bush do? With her platform and determination to make a change, be on the lookout for this actress and her continued efforts through activism. Whether it's filming a movie, using her voice, or actively participating as a woman's activist, know that she'll be a force to be reckoned with for years to come. And, if you want to get involved with any of the campaigns that Bush is apart of, herself, reach out to the organizations featured and make your own difference!

It's official! In the latest celebrity wedding news, country singers Carly Pearce and Michael Ray are married after only one year of dating. UsMagazine.com confirms the wedding happened over the weekend in Nashville. The wedding ceremony came quickly after the celebrity couple had gotten their marriage license back in September. Pearce celebrated on Instagram with a photo of her and her new husband holding the license with nothing, but smiles all around.

This couple didn't waste much time just dating before their celebrity wedding. How do you know you're ready to marry your partner?

Cupid's Advice:

In celebrity news, Pearce and Ray only dated a year before they knew they were the ones for each other. But, knowing when you're ready to walk down the aisle is an important decision for every couple. If you've been with someone for a while, and you're wondering if you're both ready to dive headfirst into marriage, fortunately, Cupid has some love advice on signs you should look out for:

1. You recognize that effort is necessary: There's a certain stereotype that claims when you find the right one, everything will be easy. But, that isn't the case. In fact, every relationship has hardship and takes two people coming together to make an effort to keep their love alive. If you or your partner hasn't realized that being in this marriage is a long-term commitment to making an effort with one another, then maybe you're not ready to say "I do."

2. You make long-term plans together: If you're in it for the long haul, chances are both you and your partner have talked about your future together. Making serious life plans with your significant other is a big sign that you're ready for marriage. You've talked about your hopes and dreams, and you've supported one another when discussing them. Never plan a wedding if your future doesn't feature your partner as being apart of it.

3. You've done your fair share of soul-searching: Before you commit to someone else, you first must commit to yourself. The most important step of being in healthy relationships is to know your worth and love every aspect of who you are. If you're expecting your partner to love you, you've got to invest in loving yourself, too. You've got to be willing, to be honest with yourself and to know every facet of who you are under different circumstances. Soul-searching is a hard part of life, and it can be very uncomfortable. But, when you've found peace and love inside yourself, you're more than ready to be married to someone who feels the same.

Celebrity Break-Up: Kenya Moore's Husband Marc Daly Reportedly Had Multiple Affairs Before Split

By Ahjané Forbes

In celebrity news, former Real Housewives of Atlanta star, Kenya Moore, is filing for a celebrity divorce from her husband Marc Daly. The celebrity couple has been married since June 2017 and share their 11-month old daughter, Brooklyn. According to sources from UsMagazine.com, the divorce filing comes after an alleged extramarital affair involving Moore's husband. Daly reportedly got very upset when discussing a possible prenup, saying, "You can take everything, I'll build it again!" Moore has requested her privacy at this time, while her soon-to-be celebrity ex husband has not commented.

In celebrity break-up news, Kenya Moore's estranged husband may have cheated on her with multiple people. What do you do if you find out your partner is cheating?

Cupid's Advice:

It's a hard pill to swallow when you find out that your partner has been having an affair with another person. It's even harder to accept the fact that you have been "replaced". Being upset is a normal emotion to feel at a time like this. However, how do you deal with this realistically? Cupid has some advice on how to deal with your lover's cheating ways:

1. Talk about it: Now, this is easier said than done. If you haven't given your partner a chance to explain him or herself, then you won't really know what's happening. Nobody likes hearing the potential unfaithful person's perspective, but it's important to talk to your partner before you take any further action. It is also important to point out any noticed changes in your love life. Tell your partner that you've notice the change in behavior. This will let them know that you are still paying close attention to them.

2. Go to therapy sessions: If a conversation is not obtainable, please seek professional help. Tell the therapist what's happening and how you feel about this. Your partner should also be willing to attend sessions to take steps to repair your relationship, if that's something you're willing to do. Try to let them tell their side of the story without interrupting. This will be the only way to get them to open up. Also, try to talk about how things were prior to the infidelity. This will help target a sequence of events and a timeline.

3. Don't rush a decision: If you have children, this may affect them as well. Consider them as well when you're deciding how to move forward with your partner. Don't make any hasty decisions. As much as you may want to leave, take some time to think. Your partner's actions may not be justifiable, but choosing a plan of action in the heat of the moment is not a good move. Distance yourself and talk about the important things that involve your children or your household. If there's no repairable solution to fix your relationship, and they are living a separate life, take steps to tell your children what's going on and start filing for a divorce.

Cupid's Advice:

Kylie Jenner and Travis Scott have called quits on their celebrity relationship. Jenner and Scott may get back together, but for now, they've decided it's best for both of them to be apart. Cupid has some factors to consider before taking a break:

1. What you want: Consider what you actually want from the break. If you just want to hook up with new people perhaps you should actually break up with your partner. If you need time to rethink or rebalance then communicate with your partner that a break would be the best solution.

Celebrity News: Miley Cyrus Appears to Shade Exes Kaitlynn Carter & Liam Hemsworth in Post About Love

By Hope Ankney

In celebrity news, Miley Cyrus might've just indirectly shaded both of her celebrity exes. On Sunday, Cyrus took to Instagram to post about love and loyalty that could be pointed at Liam Hemsworth and Kaitlynn Carter. According to UsMagazine.com, her Instagram story showed her in bed surrounded by her pups.

The caption of the stories read, "Happy Sunday from me & 2 stinky dogs! waking up surrounded by animals is my favorite way to start a morning. I am immediately reminded about LOVE without conditions... the best part about animals is that they are careless about the details. They live by the golden rule ... Love & Be Loved. Nothing in between. No questions regarding wealth, career, talents, race, age sex They love back 100X ... all they ask is to be cared for in exchange for loyalty, reliability, and faithfulness. (reminds me of someone)."

In celebrity news, Miley Cyrus sent a message to her exes via Instagram. What are some ways social media can help you cope with feelings?

Cupid's Advice:

Even celebrities air their dirty laundry on social media from time to time. It's hard not to, especially when you're trying to handle your feelings that can be difficult to ignore. But, it can get messy if you throw your feelings out on your social platforms without thinking it through. If you're having a hard time coping with feelings by yourself, don't worry! Cupid has relationship advice on how using social media, in a healthy way, can help you sort through your feelings:

1. Private Instagrams: Something I'm sure you've heard before, but FINSTAS (or fake Instas) are accounts that are private for you to vent and cope over your feelings in a space that only a few people have access to. By creating a private IG, you're allowing yourself a place to comfortably discuss and post about things you're having a hard time dealing with. It's therapeutic to have a sense of freedom when it comes to not censoring yourself online, and accounts like these can act as a personal diary.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-up: Miley Cyrus & Liam Hemsworth Split Less Than 8 Months After Wedding

2. Private Twitters: Another way to cope on social media is through something similar to the FINSTAS- a private twitter. Private Twitter accounts are something that, from personal experience, has been even better at coping with feelings because of the format of the platform. Instead of having to post photos and write captions underneath to vent, Twitter allows you to simply post a tweet and even write threads that hold all your thoughts together in a cohesive manner. This type of account feels most like a diary because it's like you're writing down excerpts from your day. You can also quote tweet others without them seeing it, so that can also help to vent if you're sorting through feelings about a certain person.

Related Link: Celebrity News: Miley Cyrus & Kaitlynn Carter Step Out for Date Night in Matching Outfits

3. The 'close friends' option: Lastly, with the progress in certain social media to include options that allow you to post without others seeing, the Close Friends option allows someone to post their feelings on their own account, like their Instagram Story, without having to create a whole private account just to do so. This is much more accessible to the average person, and it can feel even more liberating to do it on your main account. The only issue here is to be sure you're careful in how you word things or choose to vent because even though things seem to be private, you must be observant which accounts on your main are allowed to see these stories. Trusting some friends to not share things you post in confidence might not be the best idea.

What are some ways that you find social media can help you cope with your feelings? Let us know down below!

Cupid's Advice:

Kandi Burruss is getting ready to welcome her third child via surrogate. Burruss had a lot of nerves and doubts before she was able to fully commit to surrogacy. Cupid has some factors to consider to help you figure out if surrogacy is the right choice for you:

- 1. Your health: If you're considering having a child, via surrogate or not, it is important to make sure you're healthy both physically and mentally. Surrogacy can come with a lot of stress and struggles. Knowing how to deal with your stress and emotions in a safe way can make the entire process go smoothly.

Michie ended up being crowned the winner of Big Brother.

In celebrity news, a romance in the Big Brother house dominated the game. What are some ways that working with your partner can be effective?

Cupid's Advice:

Working with your partner is one that can be a difficult task to manage. The workplace is already stressful enough as it is, but being alongside your spouse can make it an even more stressful environment. But, there are positives to working with them, and it can also be a great thing for your relationship. Here's some love advice from Cupid about the pros of working with your partner:

1. Increased sense of intimacy: Couples that work together or share experiences are more likely to have a stronger connection than those that don't. If you're both working in the same environment or company, there is even more of a sense of intimacy involved because you can talk openly about your work lives in a way that your partner will understand it. There's something about shared stresses that can be very therapeutic once you get home from a long day at the office.

2. Team-building skills: You and your partner should always be seen as a team. You aren't against one another. You're there to support one another. So, working in the same environment can be great for team-building. You learn how this person works with you and with others. It's a great way of understanding their behavior and actions when it comes to being apart of a group and dealing with pressures. This will be Jenna Dewan's second child. The celebrity parent had her first child with her heart throb co-star and ex-husband Channing Tatum. According to UsMagazine.com, Dewan's celebrity ex was crying while she was giving birth to their daughter. The Magic Mike star told the magazine, "I probably went to the bathroom four times [at the hospital] and had a crying fit. Like, I'm just like, 'I don't know what to do!'" Tatum later added that

“seeing the one you love in pain makes you feel bad, Men are useless, but we are really useless during [the delivery process].”

In celebrity baby news, Jenna Dewan is preparing to welcome her second child – her first with Steve Kazee. What are some ways to prepare for the birth of your second child?

Cupid's Advice:

Welcoming a little one into the world can be very time consuming and stressful if you aren't prepared. Having your second child should be easier, right? Not exactly! Sometimes it can be easier if you have the same gender as you did previously, especially if you have a lot of baby clothes and bottles left over. Babies have a mind of their own just like humans. They can't directly tell you how they're feeling, but you'll catch their drift once they start crying. The second can be tricky and different for everyone. Cupid has some tips and tricks to help you through this journey:

1. Don't assume this will be easy: Every child and pregnancy is different. Try to keep an open mind, especially with the second child. Even though this is the second child, there's still a lot to learn about being a parent. Also, if you aren't the one having the child, be there for your partner.

2. Don't compare the two children: When the baby is born, it's okay to assume who they look like and whose personality they might have. It is important that you try to not compare your children in the beginning stages of life. Yes, they might do some of the same things that older brother or sister do/did, but it's not a good habit to keep comparing the two. You want your baby to be their own person and not a younger version of your first child.

But, traveling with your partner can actually strengthen your relationship as well. If you're already packing your bags or are thinking about going off in the future with your significant other, Cupid has some relationship advice on how traveling can bring you that much closer:

1. Seeing the best and worst of your partner: Few things can quickly bring out the highs and lows in another person than traveling does. It's automatically a stressful situation if you're traveling somewhere where there's language and cultural barriers. But, it can also be the best experience when you see your partner at the height of their excitement. You're both being able to take part in something that neither of you has done before. Traveling usually shows every side of your partner, and if you can handle those highs and lows, it can create an unbreakable bond between the two of you.

2. More time to talk: It's obvious that when you're traveling there is a lot more time to talk than any other time in your relationship. You're constantly driving, flying, or waiting around. And, if you're traveling as a couple, you are the only two people you're constantly talking to. Being able to have that time to really converse and open up to your partner while experiencing new things together is an opportunity to learn a lot more about them than you thought you knew. Cupid’s Advice:

There are some things celebrities do that aren't so much different than us. Fame doesn't always have its perks, especially when it comes to introducing your children to your newest love interest. It's something that a lot of couples worry about, as things get complicated when kids are involved. If you're stressing over having the talk with your little ones about or introducing them to your new partner, don't worry! Cupid has some parenting advice that'll help you navigate the trickiness of moving on with someone new when you're a parent:

1. Don't have your children meet every person you date:

Children rely on you for their security and stability. They tend to thrive in environments that can be built on trust and vulnerability. Having partners come in and out of your life is something that hurts a child's ability to find genuine investment within your relationships. Everyone wants to jump into inviting the date over to 'get to know' their kids, but unless it is someone you've been with that you trust being in your life for a long time, it might not be the greatest idea to have kids form a bond with them.

2. Keep the first meeting short and sweet: Going somewhere that is public is a great way to introduce your kids to your partner. Perhaps, ask them where they would like to go. Remember, meeting the kids where they are comfortable is key!

Opening a dialogue can be an important aspect of your relationship with your kids, and it can help you see their perspective on the relationship before you figure out how to introduce the person to the rest of your family.

Body image insecurities have become the new normal. Certain body types are viewed as “most acceptable” or “most appealing”. However, body types that are outside that realm are considered “unacceptable” and “unattractive”. Cupid has some advice about staying positive after having a child:

1. Be YOU!: You're still that same person you are before you had a child. It's important to keep a positive mindset. Our bodies go through changes over time, so don't start saying things like, “I looked like this at one point” or “I was this size”. Don't put yourself in a category; love who you are.

Cupid's Advice:

Just like celebrities, sometimes we can post something on our social media that tend to look different than how we intended. But unlike them, we can't go to a news source and dismiss these relationship rumors. Instead, we have to think up ways to tastefully let others know we're not dating someone without looking too defensive. If you're in this predicament, and you don't know how to go about squashing dating rumors, don't worry! Cupid has you covered with our love advice on how to nicely let others know you're not dating this person:

1. Be playful: Sometimes, having fun with the situation can be a good way to let others know it doesn't bother you before you let them know you guys aren't dating. If both you and the other person are game, it can be funny to be playful and pretend like you are dating. Be over-dramatic with the idea, posting mushy comments, creating your own 'ship' name, taking ridiculous photos together, etc. By doing this before coming clean that you both aren't dating, it can let people know that none of it bothered you, and it wasn't a big deal!

2. Be kind: This might seem like an obvious answer, but there are ways you can dismiss dating rumors that are much harsher than you meant them to be. Try and be as kind as possible when letting others know you aren't dating someone. Saying something rude or condescending can make you look bad when someone was just curious about the situation. So, try and be as polite and friendly as you can when letting others know so you don't look like a ticking timebomb anytime something false is said about you!

3. Be direct: Perhaps, the best way to be tasteful is to just be honest about it. Being direct doesn't have to be harsh, and it can stop speculation quickly. Simply explain away the idea that you and the person are dating and then say nothing else on the matter. By facing the situation head-on and refusing to talk about it further, it can be an easy and effective way of stopping the rumors from circulating.

Celebrity News: Laura Dern Speaks Out About Bradley Cooper Dating Rumors

By Hope Ankney

In the latest celebrity news, Laura Dern dismissed all dating rumors between herself and Bradley Cooper. According to UsMagazine.com, the actress opened up about her close relationship with Cooper, stating, "We are amazing friends, and we're family." This set of rumors circulated soon after Cooper's celebrity relationship with supermodel Irina Shayk ended back in June.

In celebrity news, this pair are just good friends. What are some ways to lay false relationship rumors to rest?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes, it can be frustrating for two people to be friendly towards one another without others thinking something romantic is going on behind the scenes. Platonic relationships, especially between the opposite sex, have a connotation that there must be underlying feelings there when that isn't always the case. Two people enjoying each other's company is fairly common. Friendship exists. If you're stuck in a situation where others are trying to make something out of nothing, don't worry! Cupid has some love advice on how to lay pesky relationship rumors to rest:

1. Direct conversation: Sometimes communication can be the biggest key when dismissing relationship rumors with your friends. They might just be teasing you about it for fun, without realizing it can actually bother you. If you haven't been abundantly clear about this newfound friendship, sit these friends down and have a direct conversation about it. Opening up about how you aren't dating this specific person and explaining why these false rumors have been bothering you may allow them to realize that you're telling the truth and not assume anything else about the relationship or even relationships in the future!

2. Ignore it: Perhaps, people are only speculating about you and this other person because they know it gets a rise out of you. If these rumors don't overly upset you, find it in you to simply ignore what others are saying. Like is told to us from a young age, ignoring someone's teasing can often lead to the teasing to stop, altogether. This can be used in your adult life, as well. If you pretend like these false rumors don't bother you, the situation will probably diffuse itself.

to family and friends?

Cupid's Advice:

Telling someone that you and your ex lover have decided to split is not the easiest task especially when there is family involved. Some couples live separate lives, but stay together in order to please their family members. This is not the best idea especially when you are not happy being with this person. Cupid has some relationship advice when it comes to telling your family and friends about your divorce:

1. Don't break the news at a family event: This can become awkward very quickly. You don't want to ruin a fun filled event with some bad news. Avoid making any "grand entrance" with news about a separation. You don't want to be put on the spot to answer private questions about your relationship.

2. Try not to play the blame game: Pointing fingers at why the relationship ended is the easiest way for many to avoid talking about what really happened. Even if it is the other person's fault try not to be petty about what happened. Accepting what when wrong is the first part of the healing process. Learn how to tell the story in a positive light. Use words like "this was the best decision for us" or "we've come to a mutual agreement". Not only is this mature, but this language will be best for telling important people like your children.

3. Let everyone know that you are still processing this: Whether you called it quits or your partner its important that you take the time to process it all. You might be wondering what went wrong or how you will get over this person. The warning signals could have been there, but you didn't know it would go downhill so fast. Take your time and needed space to reflect.
