2. Be understanding: If there has never been a breach of trust in your relationship, it's of importance to understand that your partner's jealousy comes from a separate cause, whether it be a previous unhealthy relationship or something as simple as anxiety. Relationship Advice: Getting Over a Grudge

By Dr. Jane Greer

In celebrity news, social media is going crazy after pop star Taylor Swift decided to release her entire back catalog of music on all streaming services on the same day that Katy Perry released her new album, Witness. It was especially big news because Taylor had previously pulled her songs from Spotify in 2014. Some fans took it to be an intentional act, possibly to take the attention away from Katy on that important day. At the very least, the timing was interesting since Katy has publicly discussed her feud with Taylor multiple times in the last few weeks while promoting her new record. This is the perfect example of two people holding onto a grudge and resentment for a long time.

For Taylor and Katy, the grudge seems to be born out of creative competition that went on between them, but grudges can be kept over almost anything. Check out this relationship advice:

Usually at a grudge's core is both people believing that they were wronged by the other person, and feeling justified in their anger, entitled to an apology, and basically hurt by the other person putting their own interest and needs ahead of the friendship. Very often, the pain that the betrayal causes can run so deep that people easily become consumed in their desire for retaliation and/or revenge. When this happens, the goal is to make the other person suffer and pay for the pain they put you through.

Related Link: Celebrity Break-Ups: Taylor Swift's Ex Calvin Harris is Collaborating with Her Nemesis Katy Perry

In my book How Could You Do This To Me?: Learning To Trust After Betrayal, my chapter "I'll Make You Pay" speaks to the nature of revenge and the toll it takes. When you lock into getting back at the other person, it keeps you connected to that person in a negative way. It is one thing to feel resentful over something a friend has done and decide to end the friendship and not have anything more to do with that person. It is another thing entirely to get mad and end the relationship, but stay connected by way of your anger. It also can be difficult for the people around you who may be drawn into the controversy as they are asked to choose sides, or worry about offending you by wanting to still be involved with the person you are feuding against. Too often there is collateral damage.

Related Link: Celebrity News: Diplo Fires Back After Katy Perry Knocks His Bedroom Skills

The question becomes, how do you end a grudge when you feel you have been betrayed? It isn't easy to let go when you believe you have been wronged, but here are a few things to keep in mind as you attempt to do just that. The first step is realizing that if you are in this situation it is like giving bad energy free rent in your mind which could be used for more productive things. If you keep the flame of anger burning you will have less available fuel for engaging in activities and doing things that could actually make you feel good. Recognizing this can help you choose to let go of all these vindictive thoughts so you can begin to shift your focus to what you can do for yourself, something you can control, and away from focusing on what you hope might happen to the other person, which you can't control.

Related Link: Relationship Advice: Does Time Apart Heal Betrayal?

Another option is to deal directly with the person you have a grudge against. If you do go this route, it is important to give up the notion that you are in the right and the other is in the wrong, and that you deserve an apology. Instead, recognize that both of you are dealing with a misunderstanding, and tackle it like a team. Consider saying to the other person that obviously you both have hurt feelings, and that you are sorry for what happened and you hope that is mutual. If you try to get into your view versus theirs, it is likely that tempers might flare and you might end up being accusatory and have a difficult time problem solving. If that should occur, the only choice might be to agree to disagree, and accept that you may never get to the bottom of it, but concur that the relationship matters more and you are willing to put the disagreement behind you. At that point, you can talk about how to put guidelines in place so you can check things out with each other and be more considerate, so hopefully you can avoid altercations in the future.

Perhaps Katy and Taylor are on the brink of letting go of their grudge, and time will tell.

Celebrity Couple News: Pink & Carey Hart Are 'Solid' After Two Breaks from Their Marriage

By Cortney Moore

Pink and Carey Hart have made celebrity news in the last 16 years due to their tumultuous relationship. However, after celebrating their 11th anniversary back in January, it seems that this celebrity couple have found a way to make it work. How were Pink and Hart able to save their relationship? Well, Pink credits the two breaks her and Hart took in 2003 and 2008 as factors that transformed their love for each other. "The first one was about a year. And the second one was 11 months," Pink explains in an interview with UsMagazine.com. An insider also spoke with the magazine and agreed that Pink and Hart are a solid celebrity couple, "They love their life together." Taking a break during marriage might be a little unorthodox, but this strategy has helped them avoid divorce. Let's applaud this famous couple for making it work. There are so many in Hollywood who aren't as lucky.

This celebrity couple proves that sometimes breaks in a relationship can be beneficial. How do you know if a break will help or hurt your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

The very idea of taking a break is scary for many couples. However, if your relationship has been on the rocks for some time, a break might be just what you need. Before you decide to go all-in, let Cupid help you figure out whether a break will be beneficial or hurtful for your relationship:

- 1. There's a weak foundation: The reason you're considering a break is due to a failing relationship. Some things just aren't working out anymore and you need space to see if this is something you really want. Taking a break helps you find the cracks in your relationship, and hopefully with some time apart you can fix these problems together. But, you also need to be wary. Being able to see all of your relationship's flaws might also tempt you to run away. You need to go into a break with the intention of possibly getting back together. If you don't do this then it's just a plain breakup and not an actual break.

2. Get on the same page: Before you and your partner officially decide to part ways, you need to discuss what you're both okay with and what you're both not. Will this be a break that allows you to both date other people, or do you both expect monogamy during your time apart? These nitty-gritty details might not be something you want to discuss during tough times, but it's a conversation that must be had. If you're both not on the same page about the break, then someone is going to get hurt and your relationship will be strained even more than before. So talk it out, you might even be pleased to see you both share similar ideologies.

3. Gives you very much needed 'me time': Taking a break from your relationship helps to free up your schedule. This is great because it provides you the opportunity to reassess your priorities personally and professionally. If there's something you always to do, it's time you pursue those dreams. Whatever it is that makes you happy may translate over to your strained relationship. When you feel good about yourself, you're confident, and that positive energy might be something your partner was missing in you. Just make sure you're not too busy for a relationship. Remember, the point of a break is that you and your partner intend to reunite.

This celebrity news has us laughing at the amicable exes. What are some ways to keep your relationship with your ex civil?

Cupid's Advice:

Just because your relationship has ended doesn't mean you have to hate your ex. As a matter of fact, if you're able to remain friends with an ex, you're more likely to avoid unnecessary drama. Let Cupid help you figure out how to remain civil with your ex:

- 1. Have your own stuff going on: Whether it be a hobby, a career or volunteer work- you need to have things that keep you busy. Having your own activities will not only bring you enjoyment, but it will also distract you from any lingering thoughts of your ex. It's important that you make moving on as
