In the latest celebrity dating and celebrity relationship news, Charlie Puth has confirmed he's dating Charlotte Lawrence, according to EOnline.com. Puth posted a blurry photo of himself and Lawrence on Instagram with his arm wrapped around her, where he wrote, "Happy valentine's day". Earlier this month, Puth and Lawrence sparked speculation that they might be dating when they attended New York Fashion Week together. Lawrence, an up and coming singer who appears to enjoy music just as much as Puth, has been a part of the Reckless tour.

In celebrity couple news from the Day of Love, Charlie Puth has a new woman on his arm. How do you know when to put a label on your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

New relationships are fun and exciting, but how do you know when you're ready to put a label on it? Cupid has some tips:

1. You start ignoring the dating apps: You might still be exploring your options before you decide you want a relationship with your new person, and that's perfectly okay. If you start going to the apps or sites less because it seems exhausting, then you might have found your person.

2. You consider them in your decision making: You may be ready for the next step if you're going on a mini vacay and want to invite your new beau. And, it doesn't have to be for the big stuff. Picking up a coffee for them before you stop by for a quick visit can be another sign you're ready to be exclusive.
