What do you do if you suspect your partner is cheating?

Cupid's Advice:

Whenever the word “cheating” is thrown around, hearts break and heads heat. Even if it's unjust gossip, the insinuation is hard to accept. There are so many ways to approach the situation and, more than likely, you're not in the proper emotional state to pick the best option. Check out some options below:

1. Approach your partner calmly: Nothing ever gets accomplished when someone loses emotional control. Before you confront your suspect, make sure that you are in the proper headspace to speak rationally. This also gives you the upper hand. You cannot be accused of blowing something out of proportion or being overly dramatic if you're cool and collected.

2. Choose your words: When confronting a person about a sensitive issue, be careful of any buzzwords that could set the person you're talking to off. Be assertive with your word choices without being aggressive. You don't need the word “cheat” in the conversation to know what's going on.

3. Decide to love or leave: Sometimes, there are extenuating circumstances that drive the people we love to cheat. There will be more to the story than just infidelity. If your partner is truly remorseful, you believe he'll never stray again, and you do still love him dearly; it's okay to stay. Otherwise, you must make a firm to decision to leave and stay gone no matter how difficult it may be. A true cheater never changes.

"She's devastated," a source says, "Ciara's focus now is the baby."

What do you do if you discover your partner is cheating?

Cupid's Advice:

Cheating is probably one of the worst things that can happen in a relationship. It's hurtful and disrespectful, leaving one partner to feel blindsided and unwanted. The easiest and usually the smartest way to go about the situation is to end the relationship immediately. After all, if you can't trust your partner to be faithful, you're just setting yourself up for a lot of stress and possibly future heartbreak. But before you do that, here are some steps to consider:

1. Talk to your partner about it. Find out the circumstances, how many times it has happened, and why they cheated in the first place. It's never okay to cheat, but there is a big difference between a partner who drunkenly hooks up with someone one and a partner who has cheated with the same person multiple times behind your back. Knowing all the facts will better prepare you for the next step.

2. Consider your options. The obvious choice is to end the relationship then and there. However, if ending the relationship would cause you more pain than it's worth, maybe you should talk about other possibilities. Maybe you should go to counseling, or spend more time with each other to fix your issues. Choose your actions carefully, because a problem this complicated needs a solution that's been thought through.

3. Take action. If cheating is an unacceptable, no-exception action for you that leads straight to a break up, do it quickly and don't draw out the pain. Tell them "it's over" and explain why. However, if you're not breaking up with your partner, you still need to make it clear that things need to change and you need to talk about it ASAP. Don't let this get pushed to the side, because cheating is a big deal and you need to treat it as such.

What are some ways to keep stress out of wedding planning?

Cupid’s Advice:

Wedding planning can be a fun and exciting task for a couple as well as hectic. Everyone dreams of having the “perfect” ceremony and reception and sometimes this train of thought can get in the way of realizing what’s really important – marrying the love of your life. Cupid has some tips:

1. Family and friends: You don’t have to plan your whole wedding by yourself. If you need some additional help, ask some of your trusted loved ones to lend you a pair of extra hands. You can assign different tasks out for certain individuals to do. Does one of your friends have the perfect handwriting to do your wedding save-the-dates? Maybe your mom would be the perfect person to help with the cake. On a side note, don’t stress out if they give you some advice you may not like – they’re just trying to help you have a perfect day.

2. Wedding planner: A professional wedding coordinator can be a big help if you’re unsure of how things are supposed to go. However, hiring someone to help with your wedding can end up being very expensive.

Don’t agonize over the little things that won’t matter once you’re married. Remember, the most important part of your commitment is the marriage itself – not the reception and ceremony.
