In celebrity break-up news, David Eason threw some shade Jenelle Evans' way after she announced their split. What are some things to avoid on social media during a break-up?

Cupid's Advice:

Getting over a nasty breakup is hard, but it is even harder when social media is involved. Whether it is viewing their stories, stalking their profiles, or keeping up with what their friends are doing, it is a breeding ground for hurt feelings and questionable consequences. If you're going through a break-up, and you're having a hard time pulling yourself away from your ex's social media, don't worry! Cupid has some relationship advice on what to avoid on social media during a split:

1. Social media stories: Facebook has them. Instagram has them. Snapchat has them. Social media stories allow users to see exactly what's going on with someone in real-time. It's a cool feature unless you're going through a tough break-up. Seeing your ex out having fun on their stories can further fan the flame, and it might lead to feeling worse or to toxic social media behavior. Before you decide to click on their icon, think about what viewing this story is really going to help when it comes to getting over them.

2. Burner accounts: If you follow their FINSTA (private Instagram) or Fake Twitter, chances are your ex will be venting about you and your relationship after it ends. If they haven't already blocked you from following their account, maybe it's a good idea to unfriend yourself from seeing those posts. And, if you are blocked, don't give in to the temptation to ask friends who are still privy to the accounts to spy on them and report back. You'll see or hear something you weren't prepared for, and it will only lead to anger or hurt.

3. Keeping up with the circle: Chances are, when a relationship ends, the friend circle won't be the same. Some people will choose to stay with your ex while others might be more neutral about the breakup. Either way, it isn't a good idea to poke your nose into the circle, especially on social media, to keep up to date about what your ex is doing. Not only does it not paint you in a good light, but it can cause issues in the friend group. It's better to keep a safe distance than to cause more distress than is necessary.

These celebrity parents lost custody of their kids after legal proceedings. What are three ways to keep custody battles from affecting your children?

Cupid's Advice:

Custody battles are hard times for any family. They can put enormous stress on not only the parents involved, but the children as well. Here are some of Cupid's tips to make sure that custody battles don't affect your children:

1. Remind them that it is not their fault: Some children may think that their parents splitting up may be because of something they did. Make sure your children know that they did nothing wrong, and the argument at hand is between you and your former partner, and they had no cause in getting to this point.

2. Tell them you love them: While you and your former partner may not be on good terms anymore, make sure your children know that no matter the outcome, it does not mean you don't love them any less. Even if your children won't be living with you after the fact, have them know that you will always be with them in their hearts, even if you are not able to be there physically.

3. Remind them and yourself, that this is in their best interest: A custody battle would not be occurring without viable reasons, whether it be on your part or your former partner's. Take the time to remind your children that doing this will only benefit them, and give them a chance for a better future.

By

Jessica DeRubbo

'Teen Mom 2' star Jenelle Evans and her boyfriend Nathan Griffith announced the happy news that they welcomed a baby boy, Kaiser, into the world on June 30, according to UsMagazine.com. Though both Evans and Griffith are already parents, this is their first child together. Speaking about how the duo came up with their son's name, Evans said, "We were basically searching for baby boy names on the Internet, and we came up with a bunch of different unique ones. We didn't want something that everyone else had or had even heard before, even us. So we wanted something different, and we ended up looking up Kaiser."

What are some ways to compromise on baby names?

Cupid's Advice:

Coming up with a name for your child can be daunting, and when you have two people lending their opinions, it's often complicated. Cupid has some advice:

1. Split up the first and middle names: Though it doesn't always seem fair, one partner take the responsibility of the first name, and the other partner take the responsibility of the middle name.

2. Randomize: Sometimes there's no agreeing, so the best thing to do is take your top two names and put them in a hat to randomly draw one out. The kicker with this one is that you both have to at least marginally like both names.

3. Figure out what's important: Is your significant other most worried about carrying on a family name? What other factors are going into your decision? Make sure to weigh outside influences before discounting your partner's opinion.

What are some ways to keep conflicts with your partner from escalating?

Cupid's Advice:

Every couple has their arguments, but it's important to keep these fights in check. Let Cupid help you keep the fights from escalating:

1. Stay calm: It's easy to get overly angry and yell during a fight, but staying calm and discussing things like the adults that you are will guarantee that the spat won't turn too sour. If you start screaming then your partner will follow suit, so don't let your temper get the best of you.

3. Admit when you're wrong: There is not always a right or wrong when it comes to many fights, but sometimes there is. If whatever started the argument happens to be your fault then admit it to your partner and apologize. Sometimes all it takes is an, "I'm sorry," and a kiss on the forehead to let a fight be forgotten.

What are some ways to tell your partner is a bad influence on you?

Cupid's Advice:

Passion is always important in love. However, sometimes the two of you can be passionate about the wrong things. Here are some ways to tell if your partner is a bad influence on you:

1. You change your mind: Do you find yourself doing things you swore you'd never do? Sometimes a partner's influence can turn you into a completely different person. If you think this is happening, it's time to call it quits.

2. You're alone: If you've cut off contact from your friends and family, this likely isn't a good relationship. Something is getting in the way of your connections with other people, which are always important to maintain.

3. They interfere: If your significant other is impeding on your life, your health or your career, they aren't a good influence. Nothing, not even someone you love, should get in the way of your plans and your happiness.
