

Celebrity Baby News: Jenna Bush Hagar Is Expecting Third Child

By Mara Miller

In the latest celebrity baby news, celebrity couple Jenna Bush Hagar and Henry Hager are expecting baby number three, according to UsMagazine.com. “I’m pregnant!” Bush said, as she revealed her happy news to her Today co-anchors on Monday, April 22. “I’m only telling because Mila and Poppy found out yesterday in their Easter baskets. They told the man behind me on the airplane, they told the people at church.” What happy news!

In celebrity baby news, Jenna Bush Hagar and her husband will soon be outnumbered. What are some ways to handle three kids versus two or one?

Cupid's Advice:

Having three children is a lot of fun, as long as you don't forget that your partner is your partner. You'll both still need to take time for yourselves. Someone will always need you and your partner. And when they're older, they'll learn to rely on each other. Cupid has some tips:

1. Get that minivan: Having three kids means you need to be able to fit them all in the vehicle. This also means being able to fit everyone in the back with car seats. Having a larger vehicle will mean less stress when wrangling your little ones for a trip to the doctor or a family outing.

2. Keep a tighter budget: Three kids cost more than two, so you might want to start keeping a tighter budget. Even if your kids are younger now, they will all eventually be at an age where you'll need to buy three times as many school supplies, shampoo bottles (you will fly through shampoo, as silly as that sounds), and toys. And, do not underestimate the cost-savings of hand-me-downs.

3. Try not to put too much responsibility on the oldest: Your older children may want to help with their youngest sibling, but beware of putting too much responsibility on the oldest. Teaching them to change diapers or cook lunch in the microwave—if they're seven or older—will teach them responsibility earlier. Even if your oldest is five years old and the other two are still younger, it can be easy to fall into the, “watch your brothers” trap while you run to the bathroom. Don't forget to let your oldest be a kid, too!

What are some ways to incorporate family tradition when you name your child?

Cupid's Advice:

Picking a name for your baby—and agreeing with your partner on a name—is not always easy. There are tons of factors to take into consideration. Cupid is here to help you figure out how to add family tradition into your baby's name:

1. Name them after someone: You just found out you are having a baby boy—your husband's very first thought is to name him after himself. This is a great way to show your future son how important family is and will create a special bond between him and his father—you may also decide to name him after his grandfather. Either way, he will take comfort one day knowing he is named after someone important to the family.

2. Close friend: A good friend of yours passed away a few years ago and you are still finding ways to cope. They meant a lot to you and inspired you in many ways. Honor them by naming your child after them. Your son/daughter will have a name that represents someone who was very special to you.

3. Middle Name: If you and your husband are disagreeing on baby names, try compromising with a middle name. You want to name your child after your grandmother, but your spouse isn't too thrilled with the name. Suggest using it as a middle name for your daughter and come up with a first name you both love.

Bush and former First Lady Laura Bush, the Bush's called into Wednesday's Today Show to publicly congratulate their daughter and son-in-law. "We're both really thrilled. We've been looking forward to being grandparents for a long time and we're very excited about it," says Laura Bush. The former President added, "I'm fired up...I could barely contain the news." When it comes to buying gifts for baby Hager, the Bush family will have to choose neutral colors. The proud parents-to-be are waiting to learn the baby's gender.

How do you prepare your relationship for a first child?

Cupid's Advice:

When pregnant with your first child, you may have the overwhelming urge to buy every latest baby item ever created. However, one thing that will definitely need to be baby-proofed is your relationship and you won't find this item at your local baby store. By considering the following tips, you and your partner will be much closer to being ready for your little bundle of joy:

1. Be realistic: No matter how hard you and your partner prepare for the new baby, you are going to have relationship issues during the first few months. One of you may even think the relationship is falling apart and possibly need couples counseling. The reality is you two are redefining your relationship to include a newborn, which isn't easy.

2. "Me" time: Once a newborn is in your life, you and your mate can kiss your private time good-bye unless you make it a priority. With all the daily repetitive chores your baby will require, both you and your partner will need to take a little "me" time out to unwind and, possibly reset yourselves. Without it, one or both of you will lose your sanity.

3. Sleep schedule: Because of your newborn's feeding schedule, a major adjustment will be the lack of sleep. To prevent you and your mate from becoming zombies, plan in advance a night time schedule, equal for both parents. Remember that it doesn't make sense for both parents to be awake in the middle of the night at the same time.
