How do you know when you're ready to move on to a new relationship and love?

Cupid's Advice:

Break-ups can end in many different ways. Some splits are mutual and leave both parties feeling more liberated and happy, like Vergara's break-up from Loeb. Others are messy and leave one or more parties hating love and stuffing their faces with food. Well, no matter which break-up you went through, consider this dating advice to know when you've truly moved on from your ex:

1. You have no problem deleting their number: If you're truly over your ex, you know that there's no chance of them randomly texting or calling and begging to get back together, so you should be fine with deleting their number. It's better to do this so that you don't "accidentally" text them one night.

2. You're not jealous if they're with other people: They're single now, and they should be able to see other people without worrying how you feel. If you're really over them, you shouldn't feel anything more than maybe a short pang of hurt before forgetting about it. Besides, you're single too! Just like Vergara, you can start dating other people when you feel you're ready.

3. You aren't angry about the relationship ending: If your ex was the one to end things, you were probably angry at them for a little while. However, if you're really over them, you shouldn't be angry anymore. After all, it was probably for the better, and you should know that if you're over them.

True Blood's Joe Manganiello Will Invite Cast to Wedding

Joe Manganiello and fiancé Audra Marie won't be leaving anyone out of their wedding festivities, including the entire cast of True Blood, according to People. Manganiello, who plays a werewolf on HBO's hit vampire series, is engaged to model/actress Audra Marie. After announcing his intentions to invite each True Blood cast member at the PGA Awards in Beverly Hills, he said, "I love them. They're like my family."

He also credits the show for making the wedding proposal possible, as he used his first check as a series regular to purchase a ring for his lovely bride-to-be. With vampires and werewolves in the same room, this should be an interesting wedding.

Who should you invite to your wedding?

Cupid's Advice:

The bride and groom are always faced with the burden and privilege of making a guest list for the big day. Since it isn't always possible to invite everyone you know, it's necessary pick and choose. Keep these people in mind:

1. Family, and friends that are like family: Start with the people closest to you such as immediate family members and other people you care the most about.

2. People from work: You spend 40+ hours a week with your co-workers. Therefore, you should consider bringing them along for the ride. If inviting everyone from work is not in the budget, then just invite your boss. Who knows? They could have so much fun at the reception that it could lead to a promotion.

3. Parents' friends: Friends of your parents have watched you grow up and would love to see you get married. Invite the select few that you remember seeing often as a child.

When does playing hard to get work?

Cupid's Advice:

While honesty is key in a healthy relationship, being a little coy with your emotions in the beginning may be what it takes to get the spark going. Cupid recommends when playing hard to get is a good thing:

- 1. Playing the game: Many people treat dating like a fun game, so not letting on right away can create a pursuit that will make finding out more about you a goal your crush is striving to achieve. Bring on the excitement!
 - 2. Adding mystery: By not immediately laying it all out there, you're leaving something to the imagination. Your romantic interest will have to ask you out again to get more info about you, ensuring a second or even third date.
 - 3. Playing it safe: While it'll take your potential partner longer to learn more about you, it'll also take you longer to learn about him/her, allowing you to truly get to know the person you could be dating before you get too serious.

'True Blood' Star Joe Manganiello Brings Work Home

True Blood star Joe Manganiello, who plays a hunky werewolf on HBO's hit vampire series, jokingly announced that he sometimes brings his beastly role home with him to his girlfriend, Audra Marie. "I sniff you a lot. And I growl a lot when you ask me to do things, like clean up," Manganiello said to Marie at the preview of Boardwalk Empire. Marie doesn't seem to mind, according to People, although she does draw the line at her beau coming home from the set in full werewolf makeup. How can you make your career a positive part of your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Although careers are often viewed as an obstacle in a relationship, it doesn't always have to be that way. Whether you are exchanging advice or telling each other jokes, being a positive support system when it comes to each other's careers is what leads to a strong relationship.

1. Honey, I'm home: No matter how late you return from the office or how frustrated you were with your boss, never let your issues at work get in the way of how you greet your partner at the end of the day. Keep things in perspective.

2. Be each other's biggest fan: Knowing that your partner is interested in and supports what you do is an amazing feeling. Don't forget to compliment them on their professional accomplishments. Celebrate!

3. Listen and understand: If your partner has to cancel plans at the last minute because of something at work, try not to take it personally. Never make them feel guilty because they would probably rather be spending time with you anyway.
