Relationships can be very demanding and overwhelming sometimes. If you're feeling trapped or suffocated in a relationship and you're wondering what to do, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Be honest: If you're having concerns about being suffocated in a relationship, the first thing to do is to be honest with your partner about it. can get out of hand. If you are looking for ways to deescalate the drama and keep your split as uneventful as possible, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Try not to make a scene: When you're going through a breakup, there will obviously be a lot of emotions and pain, but it's important not to blow it up too much. 2. Stay off social media: A lot of times, couples will use social media to communicate with their ex, and it can get really messy. Saying anything over social media is so public and makes matters worse. Instead of messaging, commenting, following, or unfollowing your ex on social media, try to only communicate with them in person to remove the excess drama that comes with social media.

Breaking up with your partner can be one of the most difficult conversations to have. However, just because the conversation is challenging does not mean it's okay to go about ending the relationship without consulting your partner. If you are looking for the best ways to go about breaking things off with your partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Address the issues: Before you even get to the point of breaking up, it is important to discuss the issues you are having within the relationship with your partner. 2. Privately and in-person: Even though a relationship is failing and there may be some ill-feelings between you and your partner, it is still important to respect the other person throughout the process. One of the main ways to show respect is to go about the break-up in a private setting and preferably in person. If distance is an issue, try to make the conversation as personable as possible by making a phone call rather than sending a text.

3. Listen to their requests: After a break-up, there are often new boundaries that need to be established between you and your ex. Take some time after the break-up to establish what kind of relationship the two of you will have moving forward. While one of you may wish to remain friends, the other may need some time without any contact to process this new change before agreeing to an ongoing relationship of any kind.
