By Ivana Jarmon

Michael Sheen recently opened up about his relationship with celebrity ex Sarah Silverman. In celebrity news, Sheen says international politics played a huge role in his celebrity break-up with Silverman. “After the Brexit vote, and the election where Trump becomes president, we both felt in different ways we wanted to get more involved,” Sheen told The Daily Telegraph. “That led to her doing her show I Love You, America, and it led to me wanting to address the issues that I thought led some people to vote the way they did about Brexit, in the area I come from and others like it.” While the celebrity exes bonded over politics and social justice, they both knew that being together was not right for them at the time. The exes dated for nearly four years before calling it quits in December 2017, UsMagazine.com reports.

In this celebrity break-up news, Michael Sheen finally explains what led to his split from Sarah Silverman. What are some ways politics can affect your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

Some couples embrace political differences, some don't care, and others consider having similar views non-negotiable. Cupid has some ways politics can affect your relationship:

1. Political differences: Not seeing eye to eye can at times lead to an opportunity of learning and growth. Having different opinions can enrich and sometimes positively affect a relationship. But sometimes political viewpoints can easily become personal and sensitive matters. Couples have been torn apart by different political viewpoints.

2. Believing your political view is the only correct perspective: A quick way to destroy a relationship when it comes to politics is to believe your way is the only way. Be open to your partner's perspective, because you don't have to like it, but you must agree to disagree. This goes with anything in life; you have to compromise.

3. Inability to respect someone different view: In a relationship, you share many differences. By not respecting your partner's view, you're ignoring how they feel, which is very disrespectful. To make a relationship work, you must respect your partner's views even if you don't like them.

'The Bachelorette' Fans Michael Sheen and Sarah Silverman Think the Wrong Man Won

By Ryan Bonner

Michael Sheen, star of Showtime's Masters of Sex recently told UsMagazine.com that he and his celebrity love, Sarah Silverman, are huge Bachelorette fans, and they were not expecting the most recent finale to go as it did. Unfortunately for them, their favorite contestants did not make it to the final rose ceremony.

These Bachelorette fans are speaking out! What do you do if a friend is with someone you don't think he/she should be with?

Cupid's Advice:

Michael Sheen and Sarah Silverman aren't the biggest fans of this year's Bachelorette final rose ceremony. Having a friend who doesn't accept your significant other can be hard. If you're in this situation, Cupid has advice for you:

1. Have them get to know each other: You can't convince your friend that who you're dating is the right person for you if they don't get to know one another. Set up a day for the three of you to get together and be able to have them connect.

Michael Sheen Moves On from Rachel McAdams with Carrie Keagan

By Gabriela Robles

According to UsMagazine.com, Michael Sheen can be seen with his new girlfriend Carrie Keagan. Last February, Sheen and his Midnight in Paris costar Rachel McAdams ended their almost-two year relationship. A source has revealed, “They have know each other for a really long time – but have been spending more time together recently.”

How do you know when you’re ready to move on after a breakup?

Cupid’s Advice:

People tend to move on too quickly after they break things off with their ex. Some jump into relationships to feel better about how things ended. Doing this isn’t healthy and in fact, it doesn’t make you feel better at all. So how do you know when you’re really ready to move on? Well, Cupid has some ideas:

1. When you stop thinking about them: If you’ve stopped thinking about your ex completely, you’re ready. That may sound obvious, but most people let their exes linger in their minds. Don't do that. Wait till you move on internally completely. Only then should you move on externally.

2. The new person you want to date isn't only a distraction: You want to make sure your next partner is not only there to distract you from your old feelings. He should be your date because you genuinely like to spend time with him. If you jump into a relationship with someone and you aren't over your ex, you will only end up hurting your new boo as well as yourself.

3. You feel better about everything: When things start to appear sunny and every step you take is like a breath of fresh air, that's when you've moved on. You feel good about yourself, your ex, and are looking forward to your future and the things that you hold in front of you. This is essential to being ready to move on.

Michael Sheen Wasn't Ready to Settle Down with Rachel McAdams

By Jessica Conigliaro

After spending the past two years together, Rachel McAdams and Michael Sheen have called it quits. The two actors simply want different things for their futures. According to People, McAdams is ready to settle down and have kids, but Sheen, already a father to a 14-year old daughter from his relationship with Kate Beckinsale, has no interest in having any more children. Due to their differences in opinions, they ended their relationship. Still, there is no bad blood between the exes.

How can you compromise when you and your partner want different things for the future?

Cupid's Advice:

Ever since you were five years old, you pictured yourself living in a big yellow house with a black lab and three kids. However, you recently discovered that your partner is allergic to dogs and detests the color yellow. So what now? Cupid offers some advice on ways to compromise with your partner and keep your relationship going strong.

1. Decide what's most important: Before even discussing future plans and ambitions, figure out what you want without anyone else's input or opinion. If you decide marriage is most important for you, don't let anyone stop you from going down the aisle. Find someone that wants the same things as you do so you have no regrets.

2. Try new things: We all know that your man's interests may drastically differ from your own. If your boyfriend is set on getting a ferret for a pet, try not to disregard his wish completely. Look into his interests, especially the ones that he's most passionate about. He will certainly appreciate it and will (hopefully) return the gesture when the time comes.

3. Talk it through: If you and your significant other clearly want different things, deal with the issue right away. Your beau mentions that he wants to move back to the state his parents live in some day, and of course, you panic. Try explaining to him why you don't want to move to a place where you have no friends or family. It may lead to an argument, but it will help him understand your perspective.

What are some appropriate ways to introduce your partner to your co-workers?

We'd all love to show off our lover on the red carpet, like Sheen and McAdams; however, there are some fairly simple to find an appropriate way to introduce your significant other to co-workers. Cupid has a few examples:

1. Let's do lunch: If you go out to lunch with some coworkers, maybe your partner could meet up with you and join your lunch group. It's a casual and natural way to go about it.

2. Spice up the work party: Not only is bringing along your significant other going to help entertain you at boring work parties, but he or she will be able to meet all of your coworkers that you talk to/complain about.

Rachel McAdams With New Beau Michael Sheen?

Actress Rachel McAdams has recently been spotted with Midnight in Paris co-star Michael Sheen, according to People. The actress, who just finished work on the film clearly left an impression on her costar! “All my scenes were with Rachel,” said Sheen. “Yeah, we had a great time in Paris. She’s a genuinely lovely lady as well as being stunningly beautiful and very talented so, you know, she’s got it all going on there.” The pair were spotted together at an after-party at the Toronto Film Festival, and were again seen later on in the evening holding hands as they walked around Toronto (McAdams’s home town). When should you take your relationship public?

Cupid’s Advice:

You have a new boyfriend, and things are going great. You are pressured to tell your friends and family, and feelings of insecurity and worry start to surface. Deciding when to make your relationship public can be difficult. Cupid has a few tips to help you take the next big step:

1. Analyze potential: Before telling your friends and family, make sure to analyze the relationship. Be brutally honest with yourself. Do you see the relationship going anywhere? It's fine if you're happy with a fling, but your parents might not be so thrilled.

2. Get approval: Before announcing your love to the world, try asking a handful of friends what they think. A true friend will point out things that aren't obvious to you. But if your friends think you make a good couple, then go ahead and tell the world how you feel.

3. Look at your pasts: If you and your boyfriend both have a history of dating numerous people with little down time in between relationships, then take it slow. You don't want people to get the wrong idea. Start the relationship off on the right foot, with all of your friends and family taking the relationship as seriously as you are.
