years and share three children.

In celebrity break-ups news, a new book claims that Prince William dumped now-wife Kate Middleton over the phone when their relationship was on the rocks. If you think your relationship is over, what are some ways to break the news to your soon-to-be ex partner?

Cupid's Advice:

Ending a relationship is never fun, but sometimes it is the only way to move forward with your own life. If you are looking for some ways to break the news to your soon-to-be ex partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. In person: The most respectful way to end a relationship with someone else is to have a conversation in person. Whether it is a newly formed relationship that you don't see working long term, or a relationship that has lasted years, the other person still deserves to be present for the conversation. This will allow the two of you to discuss the break-up without too much getting lost in the translation of technology.

2. Video chat: If distance is a factor in the relationship, or you truly cannot bring yourself to meet with your soon-to-be ex in person, video chats are a good alternative. This will allow you to break to news while still being able to see their face and register their emotions. While this option isn't as good as physically meeting up with someone, it is more respectful than a phone call or text.

3. Over the phone: As a last resort, break-ups can be done over the phone. If this is the route you chose to take when ending things with your partner, be sure to pick a time that allows for both of you to have a full conversation rather than calling while one of you is at work. While phone calls are far from the best option in terms of ending a relationship, they are still more respectful than sending a text or not telling your partner at all.

Movie Review: A Rainy Day in New York

By Nicole Maher

If you are looking to fall in love with your new favorite young couple, A Rainy Day in New York is the perfect movie for you. Gatsby Welles, played by Timothee Chalamet, is head-over-heels in love with his college girlfriend Ashleigh Enright, played by Elle Fanning, when she gets an offer to interview a famous film director in New York City. Gatsby sees this as the perfect opportunity to take a trip with his girlfriend and show her his hometown of New York. While the couple intends to spend the perfect weekend together, their plans are quickly derailed as Ashleigh gets caught up working with the director. During this time, the couple is forced to face new challenges such as kissing other girls and spending time with other men, and both begin to wonder if their relationship will survive.

Check out our movie review of A Rainy Day in New York, the newest young love story with a vintage feel.

Should you see it: If you are looking for the perfect mix of a vintage-inspired setting with all the twists and turns of modern love, A Rainy Day in New York is worth the viewing. The movie contains both elements of an old-timey New York City and elements of modern-day relationship challenges, making it unique and familiar at the same time.

Who to take: A Rainy Day in New York is the perfect movie to see with your best friends. The movie will definitely have you and your friends relating to the challenges of young dating if you are experiencing them right now, or have lived through them in the past.

Cupid's Advice:

A Rainy Day in New York explores both the thrills and complications of having a serious relationship at a young age.

While Gatsby Welles and Ashleigh Enright appear to be basking in their college romance at the beginning of the film, they are quickly presented with obstacles that bring into question the strength and duration of their relationship. With so many decisions being made in the transition between school and beginning a career, it can be difficult to determine if a relationship will survive. Cupid has some relationship advice on how to determine if your current relationship will carry into the next stage of your life:

1. See if your career plans match: While you and your partner definitely don't need to be working in the same field post-graduation, having careers with a similar structure can help the relationship survive. Challenges may arise if one of your careers requires you to work during the day while the other person is working nights, or if one person needs to travel often while the other must stay put. These obstacles can be overcome with a lot of communication and compromise, but they are definitely worth discussing as the two of you enter this new stage of your lives.

Related Link: Movie Review: Seberg

2. Talk about where you'll be living: If you and your current partner attend the same college, then it's likely that you spend a lot of time in the same town or on the same campus. However, you may find yourself looking to settle down in different places after graduation. Have a conversation with your partner about where they see themselves in the next few years. Determine if you are both looking for apartments in a city or houses in the country, along with what region of the country you want to live in. While relationships can survive distance for a period of time, the issue may come up again later if the two of you are looking to eventually move in together and can't agree on where.

Related Link: Movie Review: Portrait of a Lady on Fire

3. Decide if you're ready to settle down: One of the most important questions that you need to ask yourself during this transition period is whether or not you are truly ready to settle down. Graduating college or simply moving someplace new comes with a variety of new opportunities, and it is important to decide if your current relationship is worth missing some of those opportunities. Have a conversation with your partner about where they see the relationship going in the future. If both of you are certain that you want to be together long-term, then get excited about taking on these new steps of life together!

In celebrity news, Eddie Van Halen passed away after a fight with cancer. What are some ways to honor a loved one after they pass away?

Cupid's Advice:

One of the most difficult things that everyone will face at some point in their lives is the loss of a loved one. Losing someone close to you can be heartbreaking, but it can eventually lead to opportunities to honor their life. If you are looking for some ways to honor the life of a loved one after they pass away, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Talk about them: It seems simple, but often after losing a loved one, we refrain from bringing up their name. While you may need some time following their passing to process your loss, eventually bringing their name back into conversations is a great way to show acceptance and honor their life. Those closest to you will always be happy to hear about your favorite memories with the loved one you lost.

If you are looking for ways to decide who to invite to important events, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Establish a limit: The first step in planning a gathering is to determine how many people you want to invite. # Parenting Tips: Combating Parental Burnout During the Pandemic

By Nicole Maher

With the pandemic still present in our everyday lives, many parents have realized that they now play another role in their child's life. With the return to school, whether it is fully online or partially in person, many parents have now been faced with the task of helping their children in the education department. Though the new task may allow for some extra quality time between you and your child, it can also be exhausting. With so much on your plate, it is not unlikely that you will be facing some parental burnout at some point during the school year. But, by incorporating some of the following parenting tips into your new routine, you may find some ways to combat this parental burnout and enjoy this newfound time with your child.

Check out these five parenting tips for combating parental burnout during the pandemic.

1. Choose your battles: As a parent, you may have to desire to turn every moment into a lesson for your child. However, when you have become both the parent and temporary teacher, it may be better to choose which lessons are more important for the time being. If you are trying to teach your child lessons at all hours of the day, they may have a hard time separating the education and social aspects of their life. While you should not forgo teaching them all life lessons during this time, creating a list of which ones are most important can help maintain this new balance.

Related Link: Parenting Tips: Create a Positive Learning Environment at Home

2. Acknowledge your anxiety: While you may be prioritizing your child during this time, it is equally as important to assess your own mental health. If you find yourself feeling anxious or stressed about the new responsibilities you hold in your child's life, it may be beneficial to turn to a therapist or counselor. Discussing how you are feeling with a professional can help alleviate some parental burnout or stress. Incorporating this parenting tip into your new routine can also help prevent you from projecting any of these new feelings onto your child and help maintain a positive relationship between the two of you.

Related Link: Parenting Tips: How to Help a Young Child Understand the Pandemic

3. Use your resources: Just because your child may be learning remotely for a portion of the school year does not mean you are responsible for everything in the education department. Make use of resources, such as teachers and guidance counselors within the school district, to help you throughout the process. These people chose a career working with children for a reason, and will be happy to answer emails or phone calls in order to keep your child on track and ready for future success.

4. Allow for some alone time: Spending time everyday helping your child through remote learning, as well as completing your normal parenting tasks, can be exhausting. It is important to schedule a little alone time each day to allow yourself to recharge and take a break. Whether it is going for a walk, taking a bath, or a date night with your partner, do not feel guilty for needing separation from your child for a little while. By stepping away for a period of time, you will be relieving stress on both ends of the relationship.

5. Prioritize your "parent" role: At the end of the day, and someday the end of the pandemic, your main role in your child's life is simply to be their parent. While you may be acting as their teacher for a period of time, it is essential that you maintain some of the activities you shared when the relationship was solely parent-and-child. If you and your child used to watch a specific television show together or play soccer in the yard before the pandemic, be sure to keep that in your routine. Incorporating this parenting tip into your pandemic routine can help maintain the relationship between you and your child, as well as allow for the creation of some new memories!

Travel Tips: What to Pack in Your Carry-On During a Pandemic

By Nicole Maher

This year has slowly made its way from Summer to Fall, and before we know it, we will be right in the middle of the holiday season. With Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's on the horizon, many people may need to travel if they wish to spend time with their families. However, they still may have some hesitations about traveling during the pandemic. If health and safety are weighing heavy on your mind for the upcoming holiday season, try adding some of these travel tips to your normal routine to help relieve some of the stress surrounding your travel plans.

Check out these five travel tips of what to pack in your carry-on while traveling during a pandemic.

1. An extra mask: It's practically part of our daily routines at this point, right? Keys, wallet, phone, mask. With people coming and going from different locations, the airport is one of the most important public places to be wearing a mask. While you will already have one around your face, it is also wise to place a spare in your carry-on. This travel tip will help keep you safe in the event something happens to the mask you are wearing.

2. Gloves: Whether it is railings, door handles, or storage bins, you will inevitably need to touch different objects as you navigate your way through an airport. A great way to protect yourself from the germs on these objects, and spare yourself from continuously washing your hands, is to wear a pair of gloves. Stuff a few pairs of throw-away surgical gloves into your carry-on so that you can change them as needed, and reveal some of the stress of feeling like you need to constantly clean your hands.

3. Hand sanitizer: Even if you opt to wear gloves as you travel, carrying hand sanitizer is equally as important. Clip a travel-sized hand sanitizer onto the handle of your suitcase or backpack to ensure that it is easy to reach throughout your trip. Many airlines have restrictions of the volume of liquids allowed in a carry-on, so be sure to check the policy so that your sanitizer will make it through security!

4. Electronic-safe wipes: From a phone to a laptop, you will likely be using at least one electronic device while you are traveling. It is just as important to keep these devices clean and safe as it is to protect your own hands. Packing a few electronic-safe disinfectant wipes into your carry-on will allow you to keep your belongings clean throughout the trip and once you reach your destination. Be sure to read the cleaning instructions on both your electronics and the wipes to ensure they are safe to use on everything. Along with hand sanitizers, airlines may also have rules on these types of cleaners, so be sure to check their rules when you are including this travel tip.

5. Normal airport essentials: With the added stress of trying to remain safe while traveling during a pandemic, we may find ourselves overlooking the basics. Whether it is a sweatshirt to keep you warm, a travel pillow to help you sleep, or headphones to listen to your favorite playlist, these essentials are just as important as they were pre-pandemic. By reserving a spot for your normal travel essentials in your carry-on, you help reduce any travel anxiety and maintain a little bit of normalcy on your trip.

Cupid's Advice:

Watching someone we care about go through an emotional break-up can be almost as painful as going through a break-up ourselves. If you are looking for ways to support a friend or family member through a rough split, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Listen to them: The best way to show your support for someone in any situation, especially someone going through a rough split, is to simply listen to them. While it is great to offer advice and insight into similar situations you have been through, it is also important to make sure you are simply listening as the other person expresses their feelings. The last thing you want is for someone to falsely think you are trying to make the situation about yourself.

2. Spend time together: One of the most difficult things that follows a break-up is filling the time that you used to spend with your significant other. ## Fitness      Trend:      Exercise Snacking

By Nicole Maher

Many of us began the new decade with high hopes of our fitness New Year's resolutions. However, with the shut down of gyms across the country and drastic changes to our daily schedules due to the pandemic, these goals may have appeared unachievable. Faced with these new circumstances, many people began to turn to the new fitness trend of exercise snacking as a way of staying in shape, or beginning their fitness journey.

Find out some of the benefits of the new fitness trend, exercise snacking.

The question is, what is exercise snacking? Despite its name, it does not involve any food. Instead, exercise snacking refers to the act of breaking down a workout into five minute intervals throughout the day rather than completing it all in one sitting. Learn about the benefits of this new phenomenon:

1. Fits into a busy schedule: Whether we are working, attending classes, or spending time with friends and family, it can be difficult to devote an hour or more to working out during the day. Exercise snacking is a great way of breaking down workouts into smaller sections that you can fit between all the other activities in your day. Moving your body for five minutes before you leave for work or ten minutes before dinner can help you fit working out into your schedule without forcing you to compromise time on something else.

Related link: Fitness Trends: 5 New Fitness Trends to Keep Up With in 2020

2. Great way to get started: If you are just beginning your fitness journey, exercise snacking is a great way to start. Jumping straight into a two-hour workout when your body is not used to it can sometimes cause more harm than good. By taking part in the fitness trend of exercise snacking, you are allowing your body to warm up to new movements. Over time, you can increase the amount of five-minute circuits you do a day, or transition to longer workout sessions once your body has adapted.

Related link: Fitness Tips for Working Out While Wearing a Mask

3. Useful addition to existing plans: While exercise snacking is a great way to begin a fitness journey, it does not have as many benefits for those who are already deep into their fitness plans. However, it can still be a useful addition for the days that you can't make it to the gym or set aside a large amount of time. Rather than forgoing exercise for the entire day, try exercise snacking in the spare time you have between tasks to keep yourself on track for your fitness goals.

4. Forgo the gym: There are many reasons people choose to avoid the gym. Whether you do not feel comfortable in a gym setting, or are concerned about the current health conditions around us, exercise snacking is the perfect way to workout from home instead. Many of the exercises found in plans surrounding this new fitness trend only require an exercise mat or a few weights, and can easily be accomplished from the comfort of your living room.

5. Master the moves: Exercise snacking is the perfect way to learn a new move. Rather than switching between exercises every set, you are spending the entire five minutes working on one move. This will allow you to really focus on nailing the move and strengthening that part of your body rather than thinking about what exercise you are going to do next. Once you have this move mastered, it will be much easier to complete accurately if you eventually move to a longer workout routine!

this day. What are some ways to turn the corner from bitterness to happy memories after a break-up?

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes we realize after getting into a relationship with someone that our bond was better suited for a friendship. Unfortunately, it can be difficult to back-track from this position without causing any bitterness or tension for both people involved. If you are looking for ways to limit the bitterness post break-up and turn the corner into a true friendship, Cupid has some advice for you.

1. Give it time: Even if you and your partner have gone through an amicable break-up, it can still be necessary to spend some time apart. During the time immediately following a break-up, bitterness and drama are likely to surface, which can be avoided if both parties limit their contact. Once the two of you have started on your own separate paths post-relationship, it can be easier to slowly build a friendship.

2. Respect each other's boundaries: It is important to understand that while you are still in your ex-partner's life, your role has changed. By understanding what both people want out of a friendship, you will prevent any bitterness or disagreements from forming.

Related link: Celebrity Break-Up: Kelly Clarkson Says Life Has Been a 'Dumpster' Amid Divorce from Brandon Blackstock

3. Reminisce with each other: Just as Moore and Willis do, Remember things for how they were in the moment rather than how they are under the changed relationship status.

Benefits of TikTok's Latest Food Trend: Cloud Bread

By Nicole Maher

From rainbow bagels to edible gold, we certainly have seen no shortage of food trends introduced to us through our favorite social media platforms. Every day we log onto Instagram or Twitter, we will likely be faced with a new super fruit, elaborate dessert, or a full-on diet plan. The newest food trend to make the list, brought to us by none other than Tik Tok, is cloud bread. Not only does cloud bread have a fun name and appetizing appearance, but it also comes with a long list of benefits. With its numerous uses and airy consistency, it may just be the newest must-have in your current diet.

Find out five benefits of cloud bread, the latest food trend from Tik Tok.

1. It's super easy to make: There is nothing better than finding a recipe that consists of five ingredients or less, and cloud bread is just that. Not only is the recipe short and simple, it contains ingredients you most likely already have in your house. The basics are simple, eggs, sugar, cornstarch, and your choice of a flavoring extract.

Related link: Food Trend: What's the Deal with Seaweed?

2. It's versatile: Because there are so few ingredients, it gives you the liberty to change it up however you would like. While most recipes call for the use of almond extract, it can be substituted with other options such as orange or vanilla. The dough also takes well to food dye, and can be altered to any color of your choice. Try making the finished product more savory by topping it with bagel seasonings, or more sweet by adding a dusting of powdered sugar.

Related link: Food Trend: What's With the Keto Diet?

3. It's low carb: Cloud bread, as implied by its name, is light and airy. This fluffy consistency is the perfect way to lighten up a sandwich or bread-based dessert. The limited ingredients make this food trend a low carb bread substitute, as well as staying right around the forty calories mark.

4. It's gluten free: Many breads are a high source of gluten because of ingredients such as wheat, barley flour, or yeast. Cloud bread is a gluten free option because none of these ingredients are present in the dough. This makes it the perfect choice for someone who has a gluten intolerance, or simply tries to limit the gluten in their diet.

5. It fits in the keto diet: One of the most prominent diets at the moment, also made more popular through social media, is the keto diet. Despite the rumored benefits of a keto diet, it can be hard to follow because of the amount of foods it limits. However, with a few small changes, the new food trend of cloud bread fits right in. By substituting the sugar with stevia, and the cornstarch with cream cheese or cream of tartar, you will have a keto-friendly cloud bread that is identical to the original.

If you are looking for ways to deal with lingering drama with your partner's ex, Cupid has some advice for you.

1. Listen to your partner: Your partner cannot control the way their ex acts after their relationship has ended. Rather than focusing on whatever it is that their ex is saying, pay more attention to the way your partner is speaking and acting. If he or she is not paying attention to any lingering drama, then neither should you.

2. Take a step back: Sometimes we have to see just how much we will miss a person before we let them go.
