How do you know when your dating standards are unreasonable?

Cupid's Advice:

Everyone has standards when it comes to dating, but having too many restrictions will keep your heart closed off from the world. Here are some ways to know you have gone too far with your standards:

1. You expect perfection: Perfection is a word that has a different specific meaning for everyone, but with the same base understanding; physical beauty accompanied by a good personality. But if your definition of perfection pertains only to certain hair colors, eye colors and body types, you've gone too far. You are only limiting yourself if you limit your selection. Physicality can attract you to others, but inner beauty is what sustains relationships.

2. You never go on dates: If you're constantly looking for the perfect guy and will only go on a date when you think you've found him, then your standards are too high. Dating around is a good way to find out what you both want and don't want in a partner, so don't sit around and wait for the one.

3. You're looking for Prince Charming: Chivalry isn't dead, but it certainly isn't alive as it once was. So, if your date doesn't open the door for you or return your glass slipper by the end of the night, it's not the end of the dating world. If you think it is, your standards are unreasonable and you might've read one too many Nicholas Sparks books.

Should you keep your spouse as a business partner if you decide to end your marriage?

Cupid’s Advice:

You should only continue to be business partners if you can both agree that remaining partners is what’s best for the success of the business. Here are three things you’ll need to apply:

- 1. Trust: If your divorce has caused a lack of trust between the two of you, it may be a struggle to trust each other as business partners.
- 2. Understanding: It’s important that you both realize your relationship is now strictly business. Don’t budge on this or it will inevitably cause problems.
- 3. Maturity: You’re going to want to get under each others’ skin, but you need to act like adults so you can make the best decisions for the business.

Is it okay to date only for fun?

We all know how amazing it is to be in love. But sometimes you might just want to play the dating game without all the extra responsibility. Here are sometimes when that's okay:

- 1. When you're young: You have your whole life to be tied down, and once you find Mr. Right, he'll probably be around for a while. Get a feel for what's out there before you make a decision.
