

Relationship Expert Shares Best Love Advice for How To Break Up Over Email

By E!'s Famously Single Dating Coach, Laurel House

In this week's dating advice video, relationship expert and E!'s Famously Single dating coach, Laurel House shares her best love advice about how to break up with someone over email. "An email break-up doesn't have to be a bitchy break-up," she explains. "It can be the preferred way of breaking up because you're able to truly express how you feel." In this week's relationship advice video, the relationship expert helps you understand when it's necessary to break up over email and what type of relationship and love you need to have for it to be the preferred method.

E!'s Famously Single Laurel House Shares Love Advice On Breaking Up Over Email

The dating expert believes that, if your relationship meets these three qualifications, then an email break-up is the way to go: You've been dating for less than six months; you're not living together, and you haven't said I love you. Or if your relationship can be described by one of these circumstances, email is the best way to end it: It's a long-term digital relationship; you're unable to connect with your partner in another way; he's truly an asshole who cheated on you or conned you; or he's dangerous.

An email break-up is best for these romances because "you have the opportunity to explain yourself without being sidetracked." Most likely, the person you're dating is a good person, but you're just not into it. They don't "deserve a hasty brush off because you feel bad." When you write the email, remember that you need to be honest and vulnerable and tell them what's happening in your mind and why it's not working for you. End your email by saying that you'd be happy to discuss it over the phone if they want to.

Expert Dating Advice: Why You Should Talk About Your Ex on a First Date

By E!'s Famously Single Dating Coach, Laurel House

Other relationship experts may discourage you from talking about your ex on a first date, but in this week's dating advice video, relationship expert, and E!'s Famously Single dating coach, Laurel House says otherwise. "More than revealing your past, it can also set the standard of expectation for your future," she explains. "It can even make him feel good about himself!"

Laurel House From E!'s Famously Single Shares Expert Dating Advice for Your Next First Date

The Screwing the Rules relationship author elaborates, “The key to ex talk is that you both reveal. Once you bring up your ex, encourage him to chime in about his too.” Before discussing your past relationship and love, consider this expert dating advice:

DO talk about the most interesting men you’ve dated, but don’t go on and on.

DO express regrets but explain that you learned from those mistakes.

DON’T sound bitter, broken, jaded, or angry.

DON’T talk as though you’re still in love with him.

DON’T mention things that no guy wants to hear about (like your sex life) or things that you wouldn’t want to get back to your ex.

The relationship author then shares her best tips for how to bring up your ex. “Do it strategically. Don’t go on and on. Don’t talk about them for more than 20 minutes total. Don’t make it a sob session, a therapy session, or a show-off session,” she says.

Screwing the Rules Video Dating Advice: 5 Lies Guys Tell on Facebook

By E!'s Famously Single Dating Coach, Laurel House
In this week's dating advice video, relationship expert and E!'s Famously Single dating coach, Laurel House shares the five most common lies that guys tell on Facebook.

E!'s Famously Single Dating Coach Laurel House Shares Dating Advice for Facebook

1. His relationship status: Be wary of an “undeclared” status. “It means nothing, and it’s the go-to for many guys who are playing the field of this free dating site called Facebook,” she says. She also warns you not to trust a guy who says he’s “single” on his profile; he may keep it that way for business purposes despite being married or in a committed relationship.

Related Link: Dating Red Flags Revealed on Facebook

2. Your shared connections: He may have a friend or two in common with you, but remember that he can request anyone to be his friend. Don’t let your common connections give you a false sense of comfort and trust.

3. His age: “Age is one of those hidden facts on Facebook that is revealed on other online dating sites,” the relationship author explains. If you’re unsure, check out his friends, education history, and favorite activities to determine if they all add up and make sense with what he told you.

4. His occupation: It’s easy to use vague titles like CEO, entrepreneur, or producer. “People can assign themselves pretty much any fancy label despite the fact that they have nothing to show for it or back it up,” House shares.

5. His lifestyle: Don’t completely trust his photos and locations. Instead, ask his specific questions about a particular restaurant, gym, or hotel. After all, he may be strategizing and promoting a lifestyle that he doesn’t actually live.

Don't let these common lies scare you off of Facebook. As the dating expert says, "Just like you do in everyday life, be aware of your environment and your surroundings and who you let get close to you. Facebook isn't a place to drop your guard."

Screwing the Rules Video Dating Tips: Never Listen to THIS Relationship Advice

By E!'s Famously Single Dating Coach, Laurel House

Does your best girlfriend, your mom, your sister, or any other female in your life try to give you relationship advice? In this week's dating advice video, relationship expert and E!'s Famously Single dating coach, Laurel House shares three pieces of love advice that you should ignore, despite what they may tell you.

Dating Expert from E!'s Famously Single Says to Ignore This Relationship Advice

1. Don't sleep with him too soon: This timeline will vary for each couple. For some, it may be the first date, and for others, it may not be until three months into a committed relationship. "The only person who gets to be the judge of that is you," House explains.

2. Dump him – immediately: Even if your guy is acting like a jerk, don't assume that the only solution is to break up with him. "Take a minute to think about if it's a real problem in the relationship or if it's a deal breaker," she shares. "If you cut the line because your friend said you should, you might quickly regret that decision."

Related Link: Busting the Soul Mate Myth

3. Follow the dating rules: Your friends may tell you not to call him first or to pretend you're busy when he asks you out. They may encourage you to keep your cards close and not reveal too much of yourself to him. As the dating expert says, "You might not even realize that the rules you're following are actually games." Instead, "screw those rules! It's time to get real."

If you're looking for a love that lasts, stop listening to these three pieces of relationship advice from your friends and family. "Your loved ones aren't in your situation, so they don't know exactly what you're going through," House reveals.

“It’s your life. Live it the way you feel in your heart, your gut, your soul, and your mind.”

Screwing the Rules Video Dating Advice: How ‘The Bachelor’ Is Changing the Reality of Dating

By E!'s Famously Single Dating Coach, Laurel House

In this week's dating advice video, relationship expert and E!'s Famously Single dating coach, Laurel House discusses how The Bachelor, particularly season 19 with Chris Soules, and other similar reality TV shows are changing the reality of dating.

Dating Advice from E!'s Famously Single Dating Coach Laurel House

"They're helping to shape the way we view what is desirable, what is sexy," she explains of the reality TV franchise. "With Farmer Chris from Iowa as America's current leading man, the dating landscape has dramatically shifted." House reveals five ways that Soules is changing the reality of dating: Women no longer want bad boys like former Bachelor Juan Pablo Galavis; we see farmers as marriage material; we're going back to the basics and forgetting about the rich and famous; we want a true gentleman; and we (finally!) think nice is sexy.

Dating Coach Laurel House on Her New Book: “I’m Pretty Nervous For My Ex-Boyfriends to Read It!”

By Sarah Batcheller

You know her, and you love her. She’s Laurel House, and she’s the queen of all things “powerfully feminine,” as she encourages women to be in her new book Screwing the Rules: The No-Games Guide to Love. This California cutie is an international dating coach with clients ranging in age from 16 to 82. She was also featured on MTV's Made as an "It Girl" mentor. Listening to House's advice is like talking to your best friend but with more expertise, or maybe a therapist but with a better sense of humor. If you want to learn to embrace your true self and subsequently find your true love, then Screwing the Rules is for you. Here at CupidsPulse.com, we had the chance to interview the love expert on all things flirty, fun, and for-real.

First, what inspired you to write Screwing the Rules?

I have been a prolific dater for a very long time. I was first married at the age of 21, and that lasted for six months. I was married again at the age of 23; he proposed after three months, and we were married for three-and-a-half years. Since then, I've been engaged a third time and proposed to nine times.

From those experiences, I have made a lot of mistakes. I used to "follow the rules." I had an idea of what you're "supposed to do" in order to play the dating game, which meant keeping my information close to my chest, not being vulnerable at the beginning, being picture perfect, and putting on the facade of what I thought the guy would want. I got a lot of guys to fall in love with me, but I wasn't being true to myself, and therefore, I wasn't being true to them. I ended up hurting people because they were in love with "perfect Laurel" and I didn't love them back.

I started to analyze my mistakes and people's responses to them, and I realized there was a pattern, so I came up with a strategy to change it. I started coaching...and people started taking my advice and having different results for the first time. That led me to write Screwing the Rules.

Related Link: ‘The Bachelorette’ Way to Date Lots of Guys

How would you say your personal experiences and past loves influenced your writing?

The publishers basically wanted me to reveal my vulnerabilities, insecurities, mistakes, and shame in this book, and I realized, “I’m asking my readers to reveal the same things to me, or at least to themselves, so I need to set the expectation.” I wrote the whole thing, and then afterward, I injected my personal stories. I’m actually pretty nervous for some of my ex-boyfriends to read it!

While writing it, I felt like Diane Keaton in the movie Something’s Gotta Give, where at the end she’s sitting at her beach house typing and sobbing. It was hard to go back and remember the bad relationships, the hurt, the things I’ve been called, and all of the things I went through in order to get here.

What are some commonalities you’ve noticed as a dating coach?

First, women consistently struggle with voicing their needs. In the beginning of a relationship, even the women who are super successful, strong, entrepreneur types don’t voice their needs in a way that is pointed, direct, and authentic but simultaneously loving. Often times, we don’t have our needs met because we set the precedent early in the relationship: “Where do you want to go to dinner?” “I don’t know. Where do you want to go to dinner?”

Even when it comes to making online dating profiles, we don’t focus on our needs; we focus on our wants, like “I want him to be hot; I want him to be rich; I want him to be funny; I want him to like hiking.” Well, what do you need? “I need him to respect me; I need to respect him; I need him to admire me; I need to admire him; I need him to show up when he says he’s going to.” The problem with not voicing your needs is that it causes resentment.

Second, we're afraid of our vulnerability. We believe it's weakness, but it's not. Look at the people you're closest with and most connected with. Do you love them because they're pretty, rich, or funny? Probably not. You love them because you have a mutual connection and understanding, often due to hardships. You love them because of their quirks that they often see as weakness. So what you're doing by not being vulnerable is withholding that.

Women often say, "He hasn't proven himself yet." Okay, how much more time are you willing to waste? In the book, I talk about the "U Strategy," which refers to this idea of "up, down, up." On a date, you talk about the good things (up), then the depth and vulnerability (down), and then how you came out of it a better person (up).

Related Link: How to Make a Guy Fall in Love with You

We love that you encourage your readers to be "powerfully feminine." Why do you feel that this idea is so important for women as they date? How can women channel this sort of femininity?

There are three types of femininity: the needy feminine, the masculine feminine, and the power feminine. The power feminine is the most powerful because you're being true to your core values, your needs, and your femininity. You can be a woman and be soft and nurturing but also say exactly how you feel. We tend to couch things because we're trying not to hurt other's feelings, but when we do that, it comes off as manipulative. Instead, just be you. Be your beautiful, feminine self. Allow him to take care of you. As much as I am a feminist, I also believe in gender roles.

In this week's dating advice video, relationship expert and E!'s Famously Single dating coach, Laurel House discusses breaking up during the holiday season. Sure, the holidays are all about kissing under the mistletoe, snuggling by the fire, and walking hand-in-hand as the snow falls. But that's not all: "From now until Christmas, breakups are steadily on the incline," dating coach and Screwing the Rules: The No-Games Guide to Love author Laurel House reveals. "In fact, it's the most popular time of year to breakup. Thankfully, on Christmas, that number actually plummets and picks up again in March." So why does heartbreak happen so often over the holidays? We want to be surrounded by the people we love; if you don't truly have those feelings for your partner, it'll become even more apparent during this busy and stressful time. Listen up for the other reasons that House shares and find out why it's important to say goodbye now instead of waiting until the new year.
