Should you see it: Yes! Adrift has a good story line that can keep our eyes glued to the screen. With the topics of love, hope, and fighting to survive with your loved one – we will get the intensity we are asking for.

Who to take: Take your other half or a friend. Grab some drinks and snacks, sit back, and enjoy the movie. The plot is good for whoever likes a love story and/or a movie of surviving a natural disaster.

Cupid's Advice:

Sometimes we find ourselves in a situation that we feel has no remedy. And yes, there are times that this is true and we have no choice but to move on. However, there are also times where we shouldn't lose hope. Here are a few mental techniques to keep yourself hopeful in what feels like a hopeless situation:

1. Be appreciative: Evaluate the situation and see what you should be glad for. Think about the positives of the situation and how things could have been worse. Then, appreciate the situation you are in before fixing it. At the end, be glad you're learning from all this.

2. Think it through: Most of the time – where there is a will, there is a way. This brings us to evaluating again, but this time in search of a solution or something to calm things down a bit. Sit down, think deep about what's going on, and ponder it all until an idea comes to mind. Don't be shy to ask for help either, two heads are better than one after all.

3. Be positive: It is easier said than done, but whenever you think of the situation negatively, push it out of your head. Think about what is to come and how things will be okay again. Look ahead. Things may look glum now, but they will get better. Positive thoughts can bring positive outcomes – like the law of attraction states.

From Bestseller to Film comes 'The Fault in Our Stars'

 By Laura Seaman

Based on the best-selling novel by John Green, The Fault in Our Stars is a charming, emotional story about Hazel Grace Lancaster (Shailene Woodley), a girl dying of cancer. She meets the one-legged heartthrob Augustus Waters (Ansel Elgort) and, after a few close calls and an adventure that takes them across the world, falls in love with him. These star-crossed lovers must learn to live and love despite their illnesses and the oblivion that faces us all.

Who Should See It: This movie is an absolute must-see for anyone who has read the novel or is a fan of John Green's previous works. Anyone who is a fan of cute, romantic movies will enjoy this movie, but should probably read the book first. The movie will be much better for those who have read the book. Just have some tissues ready!

Who to Take: This is a great movie to see with your girlfriends, but only those who have no problem with crying or getting emotional at the movies. This might not be the best date movie, as men may not enjoy it quite as much. It could also be a good mother-daughter movie, as long as your daughter is old enough to understand the movie's message.

What are some tips for dating someone who is extremely sick?

Cupid's Advice:

Dating someone with a severe illness like cancer can be difficult. Your partner might have limitations, and sometimes the illness can take its toll on someone emotionally. But despite these challenges, an illness doesn't change the fact that they're the person you've fallen for. Here are some of Cupid's tips for dating someone with a severe illness.

1. You need to know that they are not their illness. Sometimes a person's disease can take up a lot of their time with hospital trips, treatment, or just resting. However, this doesn't mean their life has become their disease. Talk to them just as you would with someone who's healthy. Check out their hobbies and interests so you can really talk to them about things they like.

2. You should enjoy the time you have with them. This is something everyone should do regardless of their partner's health. People pass away or become sick all the time, and there's no way of knowing when that will happen. Maybe your partner has a better idea of when that time will be, but that shouldn't stop you from getting the most out of your time together.

3. You need to plan dates accordingly. Sometimes sickness can bring a lot of limitations with it, including mobility, diet, and stamina. If your partner has any of these limitations, it's important to plan dates that can accommodate these limitations. Just because they might not be able to do everything, doesn't mean they can't do anything. Don't let disease keep you from going out and having fun. Show you care by being extra creative with your ideas!

New Couple: Shailene Woodley Makes Out with Co-Star Shiloh Fernandez at Sundance

 By Andrea Surujnauth

Shailene Woodley got cozy with her White Bird in a Blizzard costar Shiloh Fernandez during the Sundance Film Festival in Utah. A source told UsMagazine.com, "They danced until 2 a.m. and ended up making out at the end of the night." Woodley and Fernandez play each other's love interest in White Bird in a Blizzard and apparently that rings true both on screen and off. In between the sweet smooches, Woodley was also promoting another movie called Spectacular Now with costars Brie Larson and Miles Teller. Woodley is on a role this year, she also has two more movies that she will be starring in. The Amazing Spiderman 2, where she will be playing the role of Mary Jane Watson, along with her fourth movie which will be a thriller called Divergent. We wish Shailene Woodley all the best with her numerous upcoming movies and her new love interest.

How do you know when to go public with your relationship?

Cupid's Advice:

How do you know when it is an appropriate time to introduce your new love interest to the friends and family? Is it too soon to let the public know about your new beau? Cupid is here to help you figure out what your next move should be:

1. Make sure you are both on the same page: Figure out titles before going public. Be sure that your sweetheart is planning to stick around before making anything public. You don't want to have to face the awkward "oh we're not together anymore" after only a month of spreading the news. Unfortunately this means that you will have to have the "where do we stand" talk. If you feel it is too soon for that talk then it is too soon to go public.

2. Make sure the relationship is stable enough: Making things public will definitely add more pressure to your relationship. Make sure you are both ready for the pressures and are secure enough together to handle it.

3. Listen to your true feelings: If you do not feel ready to make your relationship public, or if you feel like you're having second thoughts, then do not go through with it. This could be because you do not see yourself in a long term relationship with this person. They may just be a fling or a friend or maybe you just need more time. Make sure you are 100% sure that you see yourself in a relationship with the other person before letting everyone know about it.
