Cupid's Advice:

When you're in a relationship not every moment will be a good one. Your partner can be experiencing something that doesn't have much to do with you, but that doesn't mean you should stand in the background. If you want to support your partner through tough situations, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Don't make them ask for help: When going through something tough your partner may want your help and support, but won't ask you. Be proactive and ask them what you can do for them and do what you think is best for them without your partner asking for it.

2. Don't make this about yourself: Try not to complain and make things harder for your partner as they're already going through a rough time. Keep the attention focused on your partner because they need it right now. Offer them support. Love them. Be kind to them. Raise them up.

3. Speak up for them: If your partner isn't ready to address anyone or speak out regarding the situation, don't feel shy speak for them. You are their partner and you know them the best. Say whatever you feel your partner would. Whether you're telling people that your partner doesn't want to talk right now or explaining the situation in full details, don't be afraid to say something.

What are some ways to prepare your relationship for the arrival of a child?

Cupid’s Advice:

Deciding you want to have a baby is only the first step of a long journey. Getting ready for the arrival of new baby can be stressful and challenging, but it can also be a lot of fun. Cupid has some advice on ways to prepare your relationship for the arrival of a child:

1. Discuss the raising of your child: Once you start this conversation know that there will be some disagreements. No couple agrees on everything all the time. Having a child can be stressful. Once you have a child things will change, but make it easier by talking about how you plan to raise the child beforehand and set up all necessary ground rules in terms of your parenting standards. Couples who communicate have an easier time trusting their partner and have a better chance at keeping their bond strong.

2. Be prepared to compromise: You both probably have different opinions on how to raise your child, but you have to be willing to sacrifice and compromise to make things work. You will also have to compromise in terms of work and other daily activities. Plan before the arrival of your child what you're going to do about work, child doctor appointments, baby errands etc. Keep what is best for the child in mind while you do your decision making.

What are some reasons to keep your relationship under wraps at first?

Cupid's Advice:

When in love, you just want to shout it out from the rooftops. But sometimes it can be a good idea to keep your relationship a secret at first. Cupid is here to tell you why.

1. Make sure it is serious: Couples tend to keep their relationships under wraps at first because they want to make sure that it is serious enough to last a long time before they start telling people about it. Nothing is more embarrassing than having to tell everyone that you are no longer with your beau after only a week of spreading the news.

2. Publicity: When your relationship is public, there are many more pressures to endure. Your relationship seems to constantly be under microscope being examined by everyone you come into contact with. Every little fight is everyone's business. Keeping your relationship quiet until its ready to withstand those pressures will save you a lifetime of stress.

3. Jealousy: When your relationship is public, it can fall victim to the jealousy of others. By keeping your relationship on the down low in the beginning, you and your sweetheart will have time to build up enough trust in each other so when you do go public, those jealous outsiders won't be able to mess up what you two have.

How do you show someone you're interested without being overbearing?

Cupid's Advice:

It's always good to show interest in someone you could see yourself in a relationship with, but don't overdo it. Cupid has some tips:

1. Be funny: People are attracted to those who are fun to be around. Break the ice by telling a joke.

2. Exude confidence: You may be pining over the new hottie, but keep in mind you're pretty desirable yourself.

3. Leave an out: Sometimes, it just doesn't work out with the person you're crushing on, and it's okay. It's best to try and fail than to have never tried at all.

Justin Timberlake Talks About Friends With Benefits

Sure his role in the upcoming film, Friends with Benefits, involves him having a casual relationship, but Justin Timberlake recently opened up to Ellen DeGeneres, saying he's not a big fan of the idea, according to People. "It's a really good idea until it becomes a bad idea," Timberlake said. "It probably becomes a bad idea really fast." The 30-year-old Prince of Pop said it's hard to keep emotions in check in those type of hookups, and it gets worse once sex is involved. "If you're going to be intimate with someone at some point somebody's going to feel something," he said.

When can a friends with benefits situation be a good idea?

Cupid's Advice:

- 1. Fresh off a breakup: A 'no strings attached' relationship may be beneficial if you just got out of a serious relationship, and you need a boost of confidence.
- 2. The big move: It's tough to tie yourself down to a city you don't live in anymore. If you anticipate either a move to a different city, but still want to have fun, this type of relationship may be appropriate.

3. Flying solo: For whatever the reason may be, if you're not ready for a committed gig, then it's okay to want to have a non-serious partnership. Just make sure you let your partner know what you're feeling.

Is it ever a good idea to fight with your partner in public?

Cupid's Advice:

Though disagreeing about daily chores is hardly a public brawl, fighting in public is never part of a healthy relationship:

1. Unwanted attention: Though you may feel strongly about your end of the argument, fighting in public can be embarrassing for both you and your partner. Wait until you can discuss things in private before you vent. It'll also give you some more time to think.

2. Overhearing: When you fight in public, people around you inevitably overhear. Often times you're having a heated discussion about topics that aren't necessarily meant to go public – personal issues. If you don't want the whole world knowing intimate details about your relationship, refrain from duking it out in a public arena.

3. Trouble: In extreme cases, you might be deemed a "trouble customer" if your fight originates in a place of business. The last thing you need is that type of reputation at your location grocery store. Think about the consequences of your public dispute before you engage in one.
