Cupid's Advice:

Holidays are a great time to be with the people that you love most, and for a lot of people that means being with their partner, but not everyone feels the same way. If you are debating if you should spend holidays with your partner, Cupid has some advice for you:

1. Share the intimate moments: Since there is no work or school on national holidays, there's nothing else for you to do besides enjoy the holiday and be with the people you love. Instead of running around like you would on a regular day, you can not only be with your partner, but be present with your partner. You can cherish those long lasting memories that you make on holidays together.

2. Introduce your partner to your family: The holidays are the perfect time to introduce your partner to your family. Everyone is happy and filled with holiday joy, and conversation just flows easier on the holidays. Your partner is bound to have a better relationship with your family if they meet on a holiday rather than meeting on a regular day.

Go out and do something that you normally wouldn't do together, or stay in and play a board game. Whatever it is, strip the responsibilities of adulthood just for today and bring out your inner kid.

Cupid's Advice:

It can be difficult to say the right things to your friend or family member who has been cheated on. You don't want to say anything that will upset them and you truly want to comfort them because it pains you that they are going through this. Here are some tips on how you can help in this occurrence:

1. Be more positive than negative: Try not to say things like "once a cheater, always a cheater" because who knows if the two will get back together. Instead of focusing on the bad, focus on the good. Remind your pal that they are so strong, you guys are going to get through this together, and you will support them no matter what.
